Spreading Revolt Threatens To Wreck Fascist Campaign; Hatred of Retreating Italians Is Blamed for Mutinies.

Uprisings Reported in Morocco, Algiers and on Mainland, at Recently Conquered Malaga.

(Copyright, 1937, by United Press.)
GIBRALTAR, March 30.—Spreading revolt among the mercenary and patriotic troops of the Spanish Rebel dictator, Francisco Franco, and his merciless executions of the plotters threatened to wreck the Fascist revolution.

Mass executions by Franco's firing squads were reported from Tetuan, Rebel air base in Spanish Morocco and birthplace of the military uprising last July 17, and from Algiers, headquarters of the insurgent fleet across the Bay of Gibraltar.

The greatest slaughter was reported from Malaga, shell-shattered seaport east of here, where Franco was said to have sent 250 prisoners before his execution squads.

The full extent of the revolt and the number of alleged conspirators slain—both military and civilian—was vague but informed neutrals estimated the executions at more than 600.

Rebels Silent.

Behind the revolt, about which Rebel communiques remained significantly silent, loomed the figure of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, who has openly allied himself with Franco's insurrection and his efforts to establish a Fascist state in Spain. Several of the mutinies were blamed on intense hatred of Spanish and German soldiers toward the Italian units who ran from the Loyalist drive along the Guadalquivir front and were responsible for the most crushing defeat administered to Franco in the entire war.

Only last night Mussolini was reported to have sent orders to his Italian "volunteers" in Spain demanding that they bring about a major Rebel victory to wipe out the humiliation of Guadalquivir.

Rout Continues.

But, while Franco sought to quell the uprisings in his ranks, the eight-month-old war took an opposite turn, and the Loyalists appeared to be driving the Rebels—and their Italian comrades—in panicky retreat on a half-dozen scattered fronts.

Reports indicated Franco's massing of troops behind Cordoba for a new assault on Madrid from the northeast has been delayed by the outbreak of the revolts.

The generalissimo, ignoring plots against his own life, was reported to be at Tetuan, so-called hot bed of the mutiny.

The treason among Franco's troops

Crop Insurance Bill
Is Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP)—The senate passed today and sent to the house the administration crop insurance bill, setting up a $100,000,000 federal corporation to protect wheat growers against weather, insects and other natural hazards.

Supported by both Republican and Democratic members, the bill went through with virtually no opposition and in substantially the same form as reported out by the senate agriculture committee.

There was no record vote. The bill would create a $100,000,000 corporation in the Department of Agriculture to insure wheat crops starting in 1938.

Participation would be voluntary. Premiums and losses would be payable in cash or wheat.

Arthur Cain at Home Again
After Globe Hitch-Hike Tour

Young Atlantan, Welcomed by Parade, Would 'Stay Home, Now.'

By CHARLES CRANE.
Greeted by scores of friends and prominent Atlantans, Arthur Cain, Atlanta's champion hitch-hiker, yesterday morning ended his 46,000 miles of thumbing around the face of the globe with a parade through downtown Atlanta streets and the first look at his "home town" in more than two years.

"Policemen usually have been chasing me instead of welcoming me," Cain said at the Terminal station when he was introduced to the motorcycle police who were to escort him during the parade.

A few moments before, he had muffled, tumbling words of greeting for someone else—his mother, Mrs. N. O. Cain, who lives at 450 West Peachtree street.

On the platform he was welcomed back home also by Mayor Hartsfield, Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution, and other prominent Atlantans, as well as by a great crowd of his friends and readers who have been following the hardships and pleasures of his trip through his letters to The Constitution.

Outside the station he found his Homecoming "Most Hilarious 'What Ho' to All," Says Cain.

By ARTHUR CAIN.
Well, lads and lassies, the most hilarious "what ho" of all is forthcoming and the goose indeed hangs high. My perfectly astonishing reception surpassed even the Durbar of India and I thank you all gorgeous people. And mine own, too!

Although we are accustomed to waking up at this point with some invidious "boatswain's mate" cursing our whiskers we're finally convinced that it's true and our two years of dashing to and fro are actually behind us. Mirabile dictu!

Having not as yet been delegated by the Chamber of Commerce to perform any nefarious mission I can stand fearlessly and say that anybody is crazy to live anywhere but Atlanta. And gosh! did you see all the white women? Sublime! We verily know that we shall exorcise ourselves within the good old fold forever and ever.

Our return still has us in a bit of a daze so we shall exorcise ourselves in expressing ourself. Our chief hope is that I shall be permitted to continue our harmless prattle indefinitely. But it does seem strange to be so close at hand and not to be

FULTON SOLICITOR
LAUNCHES PROBE
OF POLICE CHASES

Investigation Centers on Early Sunday Case in Which Sleeping Woman Was Almost Wounded by Stray Pistol Bullet.

JURY COMMITTEE
MAKES OWN PROBE

Official Presentments Expected To Follow Completion of Inquiry by Prosecutor's Force.

Special agents of the solicitor's office last night began an investigation of alleged wild automobile chases by county police after Mrs. E. C. O'Kelley demanded the conviction of the "person, bootlegger or policeman, who fired the shot Easter morning that nearly struck me."

While the solicitor's investigation is to deal specifically with only the Sunday morning chase—in which a South Decatur line street car, Mrs. O'Kelley miraculously escaped death from a stray bullet, and the runner got away—findings in this case will have a definite bearing on action to be taken by the grand jury, it was learned from several jurors.

Official action by the jury will await the completion of the solicitor's investigation, though individual grand jurors have launched informal probes.

Early Report Expected.
The county police committee of the grand jury has been looking into the alleged wild chases for the past month and is expected to make a report soon, probably Friday.

J. Russell Porter, chemical company executive, is chairman of this committee; J. P. Allen, prominent merchant, and Charles A. Clayton, contractor, are other members.

Lewis C. Gregg, grand jury foreman, said no official action was taken by the jurors on the chases yesterday but that they intended a thorough investigation into all accusations. City Police Chief M. A. Hornsby and G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the city council police committee, will be called before the grand jury in the near future to answer questions about complaints from citizens who called city police headquarters to protest county

SECURITY ACT AIDS
394,000 IN STATE

Six of Law's Provisions Are Now Operative in Georgia, Capital Notes.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, March 30.—More than 394,000 persons in Georgia are benefiting directly under the social security act, with six of the act's ten provisions now in operation in the state, officials of the Social Security Board announced here today.

The board explained that only one part of the act—the old age benefits program, which went into operation January 1—could become effective without state action. In the other nine programs the states must take the initiative. Georgia, it was pointed out, has set up approved plans for five of these services, covering maternal and child health services, services for crippled children, child welfare services, vocational rehabilitation and public health services.

The state has just recently passed an unemployment compensation law and is also taking steps looking toward participation in the three public assistance provisions for aid to the needy aged, the needy blind, and dependent children in their own homes.

Records show that 394,211 wage earners in the state have applied for accounts under the old age benefits program.

Mayor, City Officials
Plan Florida Holiday

Worn out by innumerable conferences incident to enactment of the city revenue-raising program, Mayor Hartsfield yesterday announced he is going away on a short vacation.

With Councilman Frank Wilson, Councilman William Knight, Recorder John L. Cone and Luther Randall, the mayor will spend the remainder of the week at Crystal River, Fla.

"I'm going to sit and rest while the others fish," his honor said. "I cannot handle a pole with this fractured arm of mine." The mayor broke his arm in the heat of an argument over a legislative bill during the recent general assembly.

Sit-Downers' Next Move Was Out of the Baking Plant

Using doughnuts for checkers, employees amused themselves during a night of sit-down striking Monday at the Stone Baking Company plant, 375 Highland avenue. The players are Carl Stamps, Marjorie Simpson. The sit-downers vacated the plant yesterday, and then left platforms and grounds last night.

Reserve District Report for February Shows Advancing Retail Sales.

Industrial production, employment and trade marched along the high road during February and March in the sixth federal reserve district, the monthly review of the reserve board stated yesterday. Textile activity reached the highest level on record.

After a slight slump in January, industrial production was 116 per cent of the 1923-25 average in February, compared with 114 per cent in January and an average of 115 in the last quarter of 1936.

Retail sales also showed a marked increase, being 8.6 per cent larger in February than in January and 6.1 per cent larger than in February of last year. January and February retail sales were 6.0 larger than in that period last year, despite adverse weather during the month of January.

Wholesale sales in February declined 1.6 per cent over January but were 2.2 per cent greater than a year ago. This February decline was said to be seasonal, January sales being "stock-up" sales.

The district comprises Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Cotton Jumps $2.50;
Spot at 7-Year High

NEW ORLEANS, March 30.—(AP)—Cotton shot up $2.50 a bale here today in a routing bull market reminiscent of old-time trading.

The advance lifted middling spot cotton at New Orleans to 15 cents a pound for the first time since 1930, day in a routing bull market reminiscent of old-time trading.

At the finish of a day of feverish dealings, May sold at 14.61 cents a pound, July at 14.51 cents, October at 13.88 cents and January at 13.91 cents.

Threats of insect damage to the new crop in Texas, a private advice from Washington that a halt to sales of government loan cotton would be asked and the persistent world demand for American cotton were considered the main factors behind the advance.

Rivers' Signature Seen
On Bus and Truck Bill

Governor Rivers will sign the bus and truck maintenance tax act, passed by the general assembly, and leave the task of ironing out any imperfections in the measure to an extra session of the legislature, now admitted to be virtually certain, according to a source close to the Governor last night.

It was understood the Governor was not satisfied with all features of the act as adopted by the assembly and, since the extra session would be called for the purpose of considering tax legislation, amendments to the act would be admissible during the extra session, it was said.

Men Arrested on Warrants
Charging Hindering of Firm's Operation.

The vanguard of employees who Monday night staged an all-night sit-down strike at the Stone Baking Company plant at 375 Highland avenue, N. E., left grounds of the building early last night.

The action was taken after employees vacated the plant's buildings earlier in the day when warrants were served on six men, charged with interfering with business.

Joseph Hexter, president of the company, said the employees, including several women, who spent Monday night in the plant, left the buildings peacefully after the warrants were served on their fellow-workers. The buildings were then locked.

About 30 employees, however, moved out into the driveway and loading platform, but apparently spontaneously decided to discontinue the sit-down tactics at about 8 o'clock last night. They left for their homes, without disorder.

Several indicated, however, that picket lines will be established at the plant today, and the fight continued on.

Philip Alston, counsel for the bakery, said the differences which motivated the strike did not involve hours or wages but that the employees began a sit-down when two men were discharged in an economy move.

Hexter said last night the plant is not operating and activities will be suspended indefinitely. He said he neither planned negotiations nor rehiring of the discharged men.

GOVERNOR FACES
KIDNEY OPERATION

Stone Revealed by X-Ray as Cause of His Illness; Surgery Set Next Week.

Removal of a kidney stone, discovered in an X-ray examination yesterday, has been ordered for Governor Rivers by attending physicians, the operation to be performed the first part of next week when the Governor returns from a trip to Florida, it was announced from the executive mansion late yesterday by Mrs. Rivers.

The Governor has been ill at the mansion since Sunday, first reported suffering an attack of influenza. Mrs. Rivers said this attack was a recurrence of a similar trouble a year ago.

The Governor went to a hospital here yesterday with a slight fever, but after X-ray pictures were taken showing the stone he returned to the mansion for a rest before his trip. Mrs. Rivers said the fever, which originally caused the executive's family to think he had influenza, was attributed to the stone.

While at the hospital the Governor signed a bill authorizing groups of women or employees of industrial plants to form organizations for group hospitalization.

Besides this bill Rivers has scores of others to which he must affix his signature by midnight tonight in order for them to become effective.

Mrs. Rivers said the Governor would

Address Book of Pretty Model
Searched for Clue to Her Slayer

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—Every intimate detail of beautiful Veronica Geedon's career as a daring art model by night was studied by the police tonight as they groped about for the trail of her sex-crazed killer.

They heard without comment a theory that a "frustrated Boston millionaire" had hired a professional killer to strike down the vivacious model, whose nude body was found along with those of her mother and a roomer in their Beekman Hill apartment Easter Sunday.

This theory was advanced by Joseph Geedon, slender, spectacled husband and father of the women victims who left his place as head of the household some time ago because he felt his wife was not exercising the proper restraint on their pleasure-loving daughters.

"I don't know his name, simply that he came from Boston," Geedon told reporters. "He offered 'Ronnie' an affair with him, but she turned him down. I believe his frustration caused it."

The homicide squad, which solved the near-by Nancy Evans Titterton murder a year ago despite a similar scarcity of clues, centered its attention on a loose-leaf address book found in the slain model's apartment.

Using this as an index, the detectives set out to reconstruct what other termed a "wild and wilful" career. "Ronnie" made fools of lots of men," he said.

Of the 150 persons whose names were listed in the book, Detective Lieu-

Restoration of Salary Cuts to Non-School Workers Is Predicted as Steps Are Taken To Raise Income of City.

Analysis of Higher Water Rates Reveals Cost to Average Consumer of 30 Cents Per Month.

Increases in water, sanitary and city ad valorem tax rates estimated to pour an additional $1,328,000 into the city coffers in 1937 and nearly $1,500,000 in 1938, were voted by general council in a five-minute session yesterday afternoon.

Acting with phenomenal speed, councilmen, with only one exception, approved hikes in the water rate, designed to produce $528,000 additional revenue this year, beginning April 1, a two-mill increase in the ad valorem tax rate expected to produce between $600,000 and $700,000 this year and next, and a front foot sanitary tax increase which it is estimated will bring in about $400,000 a year.

Increases in business licenses were not taken up yesterday but will be acted upon at a meeting in the near future.

Salary Return Seen.

Even as council passed the three principal revenue-raising ordinances, predictions were made that basic salaries will be restored to non-school city workers by June 1. It was estimated restoration of the 5 and 10 per cent cuts from basic pay will take about $225,000 for the remainder of the year.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday stated "we must go slow" in expending the money, since it has not been set up in the budget and the constitutional amendments have not yet been approved by the people of the state. He said "the taxpayers are going to get the benefits of these increases in taxes."

Meanwhile, department heads and officials were planning purchase of much-needed equipment as soon as the money can be set up in the financial sheet. The board of firemasters tonight will consider buying two important pieces of fire-fighting equipment, and W. Zode Smith, head of the water department, said plans for improving the waterworks must be made immediately. H. J. Cates, head of the sanitary department, declared 30 new trucks are necessary in his department.

Average Cost 30 Cents.

The water rate increase will cost the average user 30 cents per month, under the new scale of prices adopted yesterday. Where the user now pays $1 for the minimum of 800 cubic feet of water, the new charge will be $1.02 but, if the bill is paid within 10 days after issuance, the user will be allowed 32 cents off. Thus, his net bill will be $1.30 for the first 800 cubic feet of water.

From 800 cubic feet to the first 5,000 feet, the charge per 100 cubic feet will be 30 cents, which unit charge decreases to 24 cents per 100 in the next 5,000 and to 20 cents per 100 in the third 5,000 cubic feet. The rate for the fourth 5,000 will be 18 cents, while all over 20,000 cubic feet will cost 16 cents per 100 cubic feet. A 4-cent discount will be allowed on each 100 cubic feet above the aggregate allowance of 800 feet. The discount rate was formerly 5 cents per 100.

6 Cents Higher.

Smith said the new charges are 6

Elections Ordered
By Japan's Emperor

TOKYO, March 31.—(Wednesday.)—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito today issued a decree dissolving the house of representatives and making a general election mandatory within 30 days. He acted on the advice of the premier, General Senjuro Hayashi.

The premier was known to be acting under pressure from his ministers of war and navy, General Gen Sugiyama and Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai. The dissolution throws out of office all members of the lower house of the imperial diet. The upper house is not affected.

The diet was scheduled to adjourn today after a stormy three months' session. The government's abrupt action in seeking dissolution indicated a desire to take the issues it has debated with this diet to the next one.

(March 29) The diet completed passage of the record national budget, totaling 2,815,300,000 yen ($202,400,000), which more than half, or 1,410,000,000 yen ($401,700,000), went to the army and navy.)

WALLACE WILL CLOSE AUGUSTA SHOW TODAY

10,000 4-H Members To Hear Farm Chief; Fat Stock Champions Picked.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—(UP)—Upwards of 10,000 4-H club boys and girls from 24 counties in Georgia and South Carolina will converge on Augusta tomorrow morning to hear Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace deliver an address as the climax to the Two States Livestock Association's first annual fat cattle show and sale, which opened today.

Already here to meet the additional influx of farm youngsters, their parents and teachers, will be today's winners and losers—almost a hundred, who arrived in the city this morning for the show.

Among them will be young Eugene Marchman, of White Plains, Ga., in Greene county, whose year-old steer won the 4-H grand championship today and then continued its winning ways by capturing the grand championship of the entire show in competing with 680 of the finest cattle ever seen in Augusta.

Emerson Harrison, of Wrightsville, owns the second-place winner. His steer took the reserve championship in the 4-H contest and the same trophy in the open judging. In addition, the Johnson county animal was adjudged the best-fitted in the show.

Secretary Wallace, who has said that he will speak on the supreme court question and the farm program, is to arrive here in time to speak at 2 o'clock. He will be accompanied here by a delegation from Greenwood, S. C., which will include Governor Olin D. Johnston, Governor Rivers, of Georgia, scheduled as a speaker, said he would not be able to attend.

Prior to the addresses, a mammoth parade will be staged in which the visitors and their entries will participate. Leading the procession will be several truckloads of the show's prize cattle, behind which will march the Harris county band.

A sale, at which leading buyers are expected, will take place tomorrow afternoon and bring to a close the event, which is sponsored by the association and the Augusta Chamber of Commerce.

Daughter Plans To Furnish Room To Honor Mother

Miss Margaret Calhoun, of 482 Moreland avenue, N. E., will furnish a room in the historic John C. Calhoun mansion at Clemson, S. C., as a memorial to her mother, the late Florie Lee Calhoun, who died here two years ago.

The late Mrs. Calhoun was born in the Calhoun family. She was a granddaughter of Thomas G. Clemson, founder of Clemson College. She married A. P. Calhoun, a great-grandson of the South Carolina statesman.

Miss Calhoun has already sent a number of pieces of furniture to Fort Hill, the Calhoun home on Clemson College campus. Included were the four-poster maple bed in which Miss Calhoun's mother died, a maple dresser, a bedside table, an old rocker, an ancient Connecticut clock, two pewter candlesticks and some pictures. A copy of "Yellow Jasmine," a poem written by Mrs. Calhoun, was also sent.

The U. D. C. Clemson Chapter is restoring the Calhoun home and the Atlanta's contributions will be placed in the upstairs bedroom of the Fort Hill mansion.

John C. Calhoun bought the home in 1826 and lived there until his death in 1850. Later the mansion served as the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clemson, the son-in-law and daughter.

FEDERAL SCHOOL AID IS URGED BY GEORGIAN

Avery Estimates Passage of Bill Would Bring Millions to Southeast.

RAINBIDGE, Ga., March 30.—(UP)—Andrew Avery, Decatur county school superintendent and a vice president of the National Education Association, estimates passage of the Harrison-Black-Fletcher bill will bring $11,447,863 to schools in five southeastern states in first year allotments.

Avery left here today for Washington, where he is scheduled to appear before the house committee on education considering the bill designed to give direct financial assistance to states for public education.

Under the bill, Avery said, federal monies would be apportioned to these states as follows:

Georgia, with a school population of 1,098,533 and a tax-paying ability of $24.80 per capita, would receive $2,788,746 the first year and the fifth year and succeeding years, $3,368,238.

Alabama, with a school population of 980,965 and a tax-paying ability of $25.75 per capita, would receive $1,509,319 the first year and $1,525,367 the fifth year.

Florida, with 460,181 students and a tax-paying ability of $35.00 per capita, would receive $1,175,350 the first year and $3,520,877 the fifth year.

North Carolina, with 1,237,001 students and a tax-paying ability of $25.75 per capita, would receive $1,541,615 the first year and $3,463,845 the fifth year.

South Carolina, with 714,305 students and a tax-paying ability of $28.80 per capita, would receive $1,821,629 the first year and $5,464,887 the fifth year.

Stressing advantages of the Harrison-Black-Fletcher bill, Avery explained "many southeastern states are poor and cannot afford adequate schools without federal aid."

Adjustments to "our social and economic structure can best be made by adequate vocational guidance to be made possible by financial contributions to the states for public schools."

Avery continued, "that will provide right opportunities for America's youth."

TWO ARE ARRAIGNED IN COUNTERFEIT PROBE

ELBERTON, Ga., March 30.—G. T. Stutiles, 17, and Hix Matthews today were taken to Athens for arraignment in connection with the discovery of the passage of counterfeit coins.

They were bound over by U. S. Commissioner J. T. Middlebrooks under $1,000 bond each after pleading guilty to counterfeiting charges. Both were sent to jail in Macon after failing to make bail.

A search begun after the passing of several allegedly spurious half-dollar coins at a dance Saturday night resulted in Stutiles' arrest last night. Sheriff John Starke today reported he had found moulds for both 10-cent and 50-cent pieces in Stutiles' home, and a few coins which indicated excellent engraving.

Matthews later was taken into custody, charged with passing counterfeit money.

LOCAL SAFETY RECORD SHOWS IMPROVEMENT POSSIBLE, SAYS BISHOP

Motor Club Official Urges Motorists To Take Free Driver Tests.

Atlanta's splendid traffic safety record this year, as compared with other major cities of the country, offers concrete evidence the accident situation can be improved, according to Charles B. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Atlanta Motor Club, who yesterday was helping with tests being made with the scientific American Automobile Association driver testing equipment installed at 56 Peachtree street.

An unusual opportunity is being offered Atlantans to test their driving ability. The AAA equipment tests the reactions of motorists to nearly every driving condition and shows the subject if he has any physical defects or bad driving habits which might make driving dangerous for him.

"Bringing the battery of testing devices to Atlanta almost simultaneously with the report of a sharp upturn in motor deaths in major cities during the first quarter of 1937, the Atlanta Motor Club is merely trying to fulfill another civic obligation," Mr. Bishop said.

Vigilance Is Price.

"While everyone can rightfully be proud of the fact that motor deaths in the city of Atlanta are decreasing, eternal vigilance is the price we must pay for traffic safety."

"The testing devices brought here for the free use of operators of motor vehicles give them an opportunity to meet situations similar to those frequently encountered on the highway. As a result, it is possible for motorists to learn weaknesses that contribute to driving faults so they may be corrected."

The driver testing equipment offers not only much needed information for drivers, but also offers an interesting half-hour with what is perhaps the most comprehensive series of driver tests ever developed.

Expert Operators. Atlanta motorists are invited to take the tests, under the direction of expert operators, free of charge. The equipment is installed at 56 Peachtree street and will be available for public use through April 6.

In addition to uncovering individual driving faults, the nation-wide tour of the equipment will furnish data concerning motorists as a whole. This material will be assembled and studied carefully and the findings are expected to help in dealing more intelligently and effectively with the traffic problem in the future.

MINERS WITHDRAW MOST OF DEMANDS

Lewis' Union Only Asks for More Money in New Contract.

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—The United Mine Workers, C. I. O. union headed by John L. Lewis, negotiating a new wage contract with the soft coal operators, have withdrawn all their demands excepting their demand for higher pay.

This was learned tonight from an indisputable reliable source.

The miners' concessions led observers to believe that an agreement might be reached tomorrow and the strike threatened for April 1 could be averted.

When negotiations started February 17, the miners demanded a cut in the work week from 35 to 30 hours, a 15 per cent wage increase, time and one-half for overtime, two weeks vacation with pay and a guarantee of 200 days work each year.

Only the demands for the pay increase and time and one-half for overtime are left.

Malcom Studies What He Preaches --- Good Driving

Constitution Staff Photo—Hearst. Captain Jack Malcom, head of the Atlanta police traffic bureau, is shown above taking a driving test on the "promoter," part of the American Automobile Association driver-testing equipment brought here for Atlantans by the Atlanta Motor Club. Robert McLarty, president of the motor club, is shown at left checking Captain Malcom's record, while Charles B. Bishop (center), secretary-manager of the motor club, and Jackson Dick look on. The apparatus will be available for free tests of Atlanta drivers through April 6.

TEXTILES SET RECORD, BANK REPORT REVEALS

Advanced, reflecting principally further increases in prices of industrial materials. The review said retail and wholesale trade continued at relatively high levels.

The value of building permits in February increased 15.2 per cent over January but value of contracts awarded declined 49.5 per cent. Residential contracts, however, increased 15.8 per cent over January and were 17.9 per cent larger than a year ago.

Pay Rolls Increase.

Factory employment and pay rolls increased from the middle of January to the middle of February by "more than the seasonal amount," the review said. "The number employed in machinery industries increased considerably and there were smaller increases at automobile and plate glass factories."

The review said:

"Cotton mills in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee consumed an average of 9,053 bales daily in February, a higher rate than recorded for any previous month."

Orders and production at lumber mills increased somewhat. Coal production averaged higher in February in both Alabama and Tennessee than in January. Pig iron production in Alabama declined in February but the daily average rate increased 3 per cent over January and was 33.7 per cent larger than a year ago.

KIWANIANS ARE URGED TO AID HEALTH WORK

"Continued support of public health activities in Atlanta, and encouragement of modern methods of preventive medicine and hygiene will further help promote the health and well-being of the people of Atlanta," Michael Kley, New York insurance welfare representative, told members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Kley also recommended a larger expenditure for public health in the city and deplored the "unnecessary" deaths from automobile accidents, urging motorists and pedestrians to exercise more care when driving or walking.

He will address members of the Atlanta Advertising Club today and will conclude his visit in Atlanta tomorrow with a talk to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

EX-ATLANTA GIRL PAYS FINE FOR DRUNKENNESS

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(AP)—The former Mary Kirk Brown, New York and Atlanta society girl, and her husband, William Seymour, paid fines of $50 each in Beverly Hills police court today on charges of suspicion of intoxication and hit-and-run driving.

Judge Griffin also sentenced them to 30 days in jail but suspended them when they paid their fines.

Mrs. Seymour, whose name once was linked romantically with that of Prizefighter Max Baer, was arrested with her husband after they assertedly ran their automobile into a fire hydrant.

'Can Do as I Please,' Said Green of Texas

DALLAS, Texas, March 30.—(AP) Back at the turn of the century, the late Colonel E. H. B. Green spilt in a swivel chair, crossed his legs on a Terrell bank desk, spat on the floor and commented:

"Why do I like Texas? Down here I can do anything I please. Why, if I did this in New York, they would throw me out on my head."

L. W. Wells, 69, former general manager and chief engineer of Colonel Green's Texas Midland railroad, gave this testimony today at a special hearing in the dispute over the financier's estate.

Wells supported the contention of counsel for Mrs. Mabel Harlow Green, widow of the philanthropist, that Colonel Green was a legal resident of Texas.

Cotton mills in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee consumed an average of 9,053 bales daily in February, a higher rate than recorded for any previous month.

Orders and production at lumber mills increased somewhat. Coal production averaged higher in February in both Alabama and Tennessee than in January. Pig iron production in Alabama declined in February but the daily average rate increased 3 per cent over January and was 33.7 per cent larger than a year ago.

POLICE CHASE PROBE BEGUN BY SOLICITOR

Chases in the downtown districts, the foreman said.

Special presentments may be returned as soon as the three-way investigation is completed, it was indicated.

Orders Unchanged.

County police officers are still operating under orders to enforce the law and to bring in all liquor and lottery law violators regardless of the dangers that must be run to apprehend these misdemeanor offenders.

It was understood county police have asked the city police for complete information regarding communications between them and citizens in regards to the chase over Easter week end.

Following agitation which resulted in a grand jury presentation in February condemning the practice of random wild chases of misdemeanor offenders, Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police commission, suggested the installation of two-way radios as a means to eliminate the necessity of police chases. Following this suggestion, the county commissioners sent a representative of the city and the county police departments on a tour of cities using these modern sets for communication.

They reported the sets should be installed, but at the time the price was considered too high.

The suggestion that these two-way sets be installed was again submitted yesterday by citizens.

MRS. CARRIE CASON TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Music Teacher Here Dies at Daughter's Home in Bolton.

Mrs. Carrie Cason, formerly a music teacher in Atlanta for many years, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. R. McClain, of Bolton.

Mrs. Cason was the wife of the late Dr. R. E. Cason. She was a member of the Baptist Tabernacle, and well known in this city.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church, Acworth.

MAJOR TAX BILLS REMAIN UNSIGNED

Governor Is Faced by Heavy Day in Passing on Measures.

Major tax measures, involving the raising of approximately $14,000,000 in new revenue with which to finance the vast program of Governor Rivers, last night were still among bills so far unsigned by the executive, part of a huge stack that must be cleared from his desk before tonight or become law without his signature.

To the people of Georgia is left the final word on whether the state's 22-year-old prohibition law remains intact or surrenders to the repeal movement, with an election called for June 8 to determine whether the state adopts a local option policy, incorporated in a bill passed by the Georgia assembly and signed yesterday by Governor Rivers.

All senate bills had been delivered to Rivers' office last night. House attaches rushed through the task of completing remaining house bills for delivery with the exception of the revised income tax law. This latter measure will be delivered early today.

Tax bills included in those still unsigned, besides the income measure, were the beer tax, the tobacco tax and the bus and truck maintenance tax.

APPROPRIATIONS BILL HITS SNAG IN CAROLINA

Free Conference To Settle House, Senate Differences Seen.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 30.—(AP) The general appropriation bill shuttled back and forth between the house and senate today, and appointment of a free conference to reconcile differences between the two chambers was only a step away.

Instead of voting non-concurrence in the $122,000,000 addition to the money bill, the house added another step to the parliamentary formalities by giving the senate a second chance to accept the $9,588,000 house bill rather than the $10,814,000 total it had already approved.

On motion of Chairman Neville Bennett, of the ways and means committee, and Representative Bailey, of Cherokee, the house amended the senate amendment by substituting its original bill. The senate promptly turned down the suggestion and sent the bill back to the house.

The next step will be for the house to insist on its amendments and appoint its representatives to the free conference committee. The presiding officers name three members from each body to draw a compromise bill.

The new water rate will bring in an additional $328,000 this year. City Comptroller B. Graham West said. He estimated the increase will be about $500,000 in 1938.

Under the new law, 10 per cent of the entire amount given by the water department must be reserved for repairs and replacements. Thirty per cent of all the new revenue, with the exception of 1 mill earmarked for retirement of the $1,700,000 deficit, will go to the school department. It has been forecast that an 8 per cent salary cut restoration will be made by the board of education for school employees, who are now under cuts ranging from 2 to 28 per cent of basic pay.

New Sanitary Fees. The new sanitary fee is based on a front footage charge and the $3 sanitary tax rate was unchanged.

The new scale increases sanitary fees on property zoned for business from $3 per 25 front feet to $12 per 25 front feet, and in the residential districts the rate was increased from $3 per 25 front feet to $5 per 25 front feet.

The increase is based on a lineal foot charge and the basic $3 was retained. Apartment houses which now pay 10 per cent in the apartments will have their sanitary rates increased only $2 per 25 front feet, while businesses now paying $3 a year for sanitary service will have their rates increased $9 per 25 front feet of the property.

Example Given. Cates gave the following examples. An apartment house on the north side now pays $3 for each of 200 units. The increase in this apartment will amount to only $5 per year. A downtown hotel has been paying $47 a year but the new rate increases the cost to $212, approximately.

The sanitary department head said the average cost to sanitary tax payers, including the increase, is now only about 2 cents per day. Business, he said, produces more garbage to be removed and also in the downtown districts, benefits from daily sweeping of streets. They are given sanitary service daily, while residences are serviced twice weekly. Cates said it is planned to spend about $250,000 a year for four years in purchasing new trucks and repairing old ones. Better service will be rendered throughout the city, he declared.

New sanitary charges will be included on tax bills which will be sent out by the tax assessors as soon as new rates can be figured.

The two-mill increase in the city ad valorem tax rate is for the years 1937 and 1938, at the end of which time one mill automatically comes off. The other mill increase continues in 1939, 1940 and 1941, it being earmarked to wipe out the deficit. Estimates of revenue from these two mills for this year and next year. Some predict the city will receive $700,000 annually, others anticipate only $600,000.

Total Mills Now 17. The increase in tax rate brings the total mills assessed to 17, or $1.70 cents per $100 in property valuation. It represents a 20-cent increase on each $100 on which taxes are paid. Ten cents comes off after 1938.

City council was called to order at 10:30 p. m.

Increases Are Voted In Atlanta Tax Rates.

cents per 100 cubic feet higher than the old rate.

For 20,000 cubic feet of water, the old charge was $28.90 net, while the new charge will be $37.22 or a net increase of $8.32. These figures represent the charge inside the city limits.

Costs outside the city are higher. In the lower brackets, the charge is doubled but in the higher brackets a gradual scale of discounts is in effect.

The new water rate will bring in an additional $328,000 this year. City Comptroller B. Graham West said. He estimated the increase will be about $500,000 in 1938.

Under the new law, 10 per cent of the entire amount given by the water department must be reserved for repairs and replacements. Thirty per cent of all the new revenue, with the exception of 1 mill earmarked for retirement of the $1,700,000 deficit, will go to the school department. It has been forecast that an 8 per cent salary cut restoration will be made by the board of education for school employees, who are now under cuts ranging from 2 to 28 per cent of basic pay.

New Sanitary Fees. The new sanitary fee is based on a front footage charge and the $3 sanitary tax rate was unchanged.

The new scale increases sanitary fees on property zoned for business from $3 per 25 front feet to $12 per 25 front feet, and in the residential districts the rate was increased from $3 per 25 front feet to $5 per 25 front feet.

The increase is based on a lineal foot charge and the basic $3 was retained. Apartment houses which now pay 10 per cent in the apartments will have their sanitary rates increased only $2 per 25 front feet, while businesses now paying $3 a year for sanitary service will have their rates increased $9 per 25 front feet of the property.

Example Given. Cates gave the following examples. An apartment house on the north side now pays $3 for each of 200 units. The increase in this apartment will amount to only $5 per year. A downtown hotel has been paying $47 a year but the new rate increases the cost to $212, approximately.

The sanitary department head said the average cost to sanitary tax payers, including the increase, is now only about 2 cents per day. Business, he said, produces more garbage to be removed and also in the downtown districts, benefits from daily sweeping of streets. They are given sanitary service daily, while residences are serviced twice weekly. Cates said it is planned to spend about $250,000 a year for four years in purchasing new trucks and repairing old ones. Better service will be rendered throughout the city, he declared.

New sanitary charges will be included on tax bills which will be sent out by the tax assessors as soon as new rates can be figured.

The two-mill increase in the city ad valorem tax rate is for the years 1937 and 1938, at the end of which time one mill automatically comes off. The other mill increase continues in 1939, 1940 and 1941, it being earmarked to wipe out the deficit. Estimates of revenue from these two mills for this year and next year. Some predict the city will receive $700,000 annually, others anticipate only $600,000.

Total Mills Now 17. The increase in tax rate brings the total mills assessed to 17, or $1.70 cents per $100 in property valuation. It represents a 20-cent increase on each $100 on which taxes are paid. Ten cents comes off after 1938.

Lee and Sherman Run Close Race Philatelically

Appearance on a commemorative issue in little gauge of popularity for general of the War Between the States it appeared yesterday after the first full day of sale of stamps bearing the likeness of General R. E. Lee.

At the philatelic window at the postoffice, sales ran about neck and neck with those of the Sherman stamps, while at the general sales windows, where both have been on sale on request only, opinion was divided on the respective popularity of the generals. At one window the Lee sale was more than that of the Sherman stamp, while at another it trailed, and at a third ran about the same.

The sale of the Lee stamps, which in the consensus of opinion are extremely disappointing from the standpoint of appearance, in general has run about the same as that of the Sherman stamps. This is partly due, postoffice officials said, to the difference in denomination, the Sherman stamps naturally being in more denominations than the Lee stamps, which are of the four-cent denomination, used only for odd amounts and on packages.

The two-star controversy over the Lee stamp had no repercussions here, Postmaster Lon L. Livingston said, announcing he had not received any protests such as greeted the Sherman stamp.

STUDENT DIES, 2 HURT IN TRUCK-AUTO CRASH

DANVILLE, Ky., March 30.—(AP) One Perryville, Ky., high school student was killed and two were injured in a car-truck collision near Bardonia this afternoon.

Junonia Norvell, 15, was killed. A. G. Rankin, 16, driver of the automobile, suffered a leg fracture and possible internal injuries, and Ruth Devine, 13, received undetermined injuries. Both were reported in a critical condition.

The driver of the truck, whose name was not learned, escaped injury, it was reported.

2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Alderman I. Gloor Halley, mayor pro tem. Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the finance committee, took the floor immediately after invocation was said by Councilman John A. White.

Gilliam read the introductory paragraph of the ordinance to set the rate and before he finished the paper was placed on second reading and adopted. Then came the water rate ordinance and the sanitary rate ordinance, with adoption voted before Gilliam or Clerk Joe Richardson could read them the second time. Each ordinance was enacted into law by a voice vote, with only Councilman White's voice sounding "no" to increasing taxation. He explained he had promised to vote against tax hikes and was doing it. Halley adjourned council at 2:15 o'clock.

It was the fastest council meeting in which important business has been transacted.

Hartsfield Pleaded. Hartsfield, pleased at the acceptance of his program, announced he will approve the new ordinances this morning, before leaving on a fishing trip to be gone until next Monday.

Increases in the cost of business licenses will be worked out more slowly. The legislature removed the $300 license limit and set it at $1,000. It was said no effort to raise business licenses will be made before July, when the second half of the year begins. Officials expect to raise about $50,000 a year from increased business licenses. This sum or what part of it is raised in 1937, will be in addition to the $1,328,000 it is calculated will result from sanitary, water and tax rate increases.

A concentrated move from many councilmen will be made soon to restore basic pay of city employees, it was understood. Councilmen adopted a private conference with the mayor and city department heads Monday night, with an understanding that full pay to employees will be restored in the June finance sheet, it was said.

Mayor for Economy. Mayor Hartsfield made no comment on this yesterday but did say he would oppose any increases above basic pay and would fight against reemployment of any of the personnel eliminated at the beginning of the year, when the 1937 budget was adopted.

"We are going to practice the strictest economy in government and we are going to see that the taxpayers receive the benefit of these increases," he asserted. "We are not going to feather this money away."

With the greatest part of the pressure over, the mayor is going to rest for the remainder of the week, but department heads and the city controller are just beginning their hard work.

In the next week, West, Smith, Cates and the tax assessors, J. C. Little, Lee Suddarth and J. Sid Tiller, will work out the details of the increased taxation. It will be their job to finally determine, as nearly as possible, just how much revenue will accrue as the result of the hikes.

COURT SHOULD DEFINE TENURE OF PITTMAN, JUDGE JENKINS HOLDS

Supreme Court Justice Writes New Opinion in Cherokee Bench Case.

The Georgia supreme court should have defined the incumbent's tenure and stated a time at which an election could be held to select a judge of the Cherokee circuit superior court in its opinion handed down in a case in which William A. Ingram, Cartersville, sought to oust Claude C. Pittman, also of Cartersville, from the office, according to a special concurring opinion by Associate Justice W. Frank Jenkins yesterday.

The court's majority opinion declined to prescribe Pittman's tenure and to say when an election could be held. Justice Jenkins at that time filed a concurring opinion in which he merely agreed with the majority that there was no vacancy but that the court not go into the case further, holding that "it would be a declaratory judgment," beyond the court's jurisdiction. Justice Jenkins withdrew his first opinion and filed a new one yesterday.

New Opinion. "It would be altogether proper, as a legitimate part of the ruling, to define the tenure of the incumbent," wrote Justice Jenkins. "Ingram is entitled to know what rules and the effect of such rules establishing the tenure of the person whom he, as the appointee, seeks to oust. . . . The tenure of the incumbent is the one controlling question presented by the record. . . . A right which is too vague to define is a right which does not exist. . . . It ought as a part of the ruling to be defined. . . . This court not only can but should define the incumbent's tenure, which it has upheld against the claim of the relator, Ingram, by expressly saying when, under this decision, an election by the people to fill the office can be held, whether in June, 1937, in November, 1938, in June, 1939, or in November, 1940."

History of Case. Pittman, who won the ouster proceedings filed by an appointee of former Governor Talmadge, was defeated for re-election in the Democratic primary last fall by James A. McFarland, of Dalton.

McFarland was duly elected in the November general election, but died November 26 without having qualified for office.

Last January 4 Talmadge appointed William A. Ingram, of Cartersville, to take over the bench after Pittman's regular term expired, but Pittman declined to yield the bench.

Ingram then brought quo warranto proceedings against Pittman, was sustained by a superior court, but was denied his petition by the supreme court on the grounds that a vacancy did not exist in the office since Pittman's commission was effective until his successor "is elected and qualified."

In a motion for rehearing, which was denied, both sides asked the court to define the length of Pittman's tenure, and to say when an election could be held.

In a majority opinion, the court ruled that such a definition of the tenure would constitute a "declaratory judgment" on a point not at issue in the case.

Iron Lung 'Victim' To Come Home Soon. PEIPING, China, March 31.—(Wednesday).—(AP)—Frederick B. Smithe Jr., youthful Chicago infantile paralysis victim, today ended his second year in an "iron lung," cheered by news he is soon going to start the 10,000-mile trip home.

The 26-year-old victim's father announced elaborate plans to take his son, still imprisoned in the artificial respirator, back to Chicago for treatment, sailing from Shanghai June 2.

A special train, outfitted with complete hospital equipment, is being prepared to take Frederick and his "iron lung" to Shanghai from Peiping, where he was stricken on a world tour a year ago.

Accompanying him will be at least 25 doctors, nurses and electrical experts responsible for keeping the lung machinery in operation every minute of the long journey, which will cost an estimated $50,000.

MELON GROWERS PLAN INCREASE IN ACREAGE

Five Per Cent Gain Is Indicated in Survey of State by Brown.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—A 5 per cent increase in Georgia's watermelon acreage is indicated in reports received here today by Walter S. Brown, acting director of the Agricultural Extension Service.

This information, compiled by the general crops section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and based on reports from planters, indicates also that South Carolina will increase its watermelon acreage by 5 per cent, while Florida will have a 22 per cent larger acreage this season.

With average yields and average weather conditions in consuming centers, Brown said, this may result in lower prices than last year. He said reports show about a 6 per cent acreage increase for the southeastern melon area, including the states of Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and North Carolina.

In terms of acres to be planted, Georgia growers report they intend to plant 63,000 acres this year, an increase of 3,000 acres over 1936, while South Carolina will increase its acreage by 1,000 to 21,000 acres this season.

Florida growers expect to plant 19,500 acres in melons, an increase of 3,500 acres, but the North Carolina acreage is expected to be about the same as in 1936, or 12,800 acres.

The AAA report, Brown said, explains that this is a normal increase, influenced largely by favorable prices received for last year's watermelon crop. He said 1936 prices were higher than at any time during the past six years.

The director declared the 1936 income of growers was increased primarily because of reduced plantings, a light crop, improved consumer demand conditions, and better distribution of shipments to terminal markets, made possible under an AAA marketing agreement program.

House Tells Senate It's Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP)—The house politely rapped the senate's knuckles today for trespassing.

It sent back to the senate an amendment to the national firearms act by which senators sought to exempt from taxation certain types of firearms used for scientific or demonstration purposes.

"The constitution provides that all revenue measures must originate in the house," explained Representative Cooper, Tennessee Democrat, of the ways and means committee.

acres this year, if accompanied by average growing conditions, is likely to result in a substantial increase in watermelons available for market. The greatest number of melons sold in distant consuming centers may have an adverse effect on returns to growers, he added.

JUDGES HERE OPPOSE COURT PROCEDURE BILL

Legislature Does Not Have Right To Regulate Rules, Says One Jurist.

Superior court judges, in convention, will be deprived of the power to make rules governing court procedure if Governor Rivers signs House Bill No. 318 when it is submitted for his signature today, Atlanta judges agreed yesterday.

The bill would repeal, rule by rule, all those adopted by the judges in convention here last December at which time they set up certain standards for admission to the bar, a superior court judge, who asked that his name be not used, declined here last night.

Under provisions of the bill, the judges will be permitted to meet once a year and submit recommendations for changes in court procedure to the legislature, but these changes will have no force unless passed by the general assembly.

"The act, if signed, would repeal the right of superior court judges to set up rules governing procedure in their own courts," the superior court judge, said.

The judge cited a case wherein the legislature had passed a law limiting the debate by lawyers on certain cases to one-half hour, but said that many judges throughout the state had disregarded the law, although it was still in effect.

"The courts derive their rights and power from the constitution as does the legislature," the judge continued, "and any act by the legislature that seeks to alter these rights is an invasion of constitutional rights. The legislature has the right to enact legislation to facilitate the handling of trials, but does not have the right to enact laws concerning the rules of practice."

The judge stated that, in all probability, a supreme court ruling would be necessary to clear up the controversial matter for good.

Among the requirements in the legislative bill was a provision that all candidates have a high school education or its equivalent. In a separate bill the senators revoked the judges' rule that exceptions to the court's charge must be made before the jury begins deliberations.

FAIR SKIES FORECAST FOR ATLANTA TODAY

Fair weather today with moderate temperatures will replace yesterday's threatening skies, observers at the local weather bureau said last night. A severe storm threatening north Florida on the gulf will not affect Atlanta, it was said, probably drifting eastward and going out to sea between Jacksonville and Savannah.

Skies to the west of Atlanta were fair with somewhat lower temperatures and the condition was expected to drift into this vicinity by early morning. The trace of sleet and rain early yesterday was followed by a trace of rain again late yesterday afternoon but was not expected to result in general rains.

The low temperatures this morning are expected to be 40 degrees, 6 degrees under yesterday morning's low of 46 degrees. The mercury will probably climb into the 50's today, approximating yesterday's 55-degree high temperature.

High winds were threatening the Florida coast last night, but were not of hurricane intensity. Storm warnings were out from Pensacola to Carabelle.

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 30.—(AP) The boast, "five minutes after we separate I can walk around the corner and have many girls fall in love with me," was attributed by Mrs. Muriel McKenna, 22, in a divorce suit on file today against the University of Illinois engineering student.

Governor Signs Bill To Permit Vote on Repeal

Legislature Does Not Have Right To Regulate Rules, Says One Jurist.

Governor Rivers yesterday signed a bill which would legalize liquor in Georgia for the first time in 22 years—if it is approved in a state-wide referendum June 8.

Repeal would set the state approximately $5,000,000 annually, wet advocates said. The plan provides for sale of liquor in unbroken packages of at least a half pint, and forbids sales on Sundays or election days or within 100 yards of a church or school.

The measure also provides for local option. Any county, upon petition of 15 per cent of its voters, may call an election to decide whether it shall legalize liquor.

A state-wide referendum on repeal in 1935 resulted in a dry victory by a margin of 243 votes. Both wets and dries announced they would campaign on the issue before the referendum.

Should the state vote wet, liquor stores would be licensed at $1,000 annually, with the following gallonage taxes: Imported liquors, 80 cents; Georgia-made liquors, 40 cents; imported pure alcohol, $1.00; Georgia-made pure alcohol, 80 cents.

SCHOOL STRIKE ENDS; TEACHERS ARE OUSTED

ECRU, Miss., March 30.—(AP)—Backed by parental approval, the board of trustees of the Consolidated school here voted today to dismiss four high school teachers whose demands for higher pay caused a two-day student strike.

All indications tonight were that the strike had collapsed with the student taken by the parents. Several students said they would continue the strike tomorrow but the consensus was there would be classes as usual.

Estes was charged with drunkenness and reckless driving. Other occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Brown, of 1147 Lee street, and Mrs. Ann E. Fowler, of 876 Error road, were also lodged in the city jail and charged with being drunk, according to police reports.

Finders Not Keepers; No Questions Asked

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 30.—(AP)—Rejoicing accompanied the delivery of a plain, brown paper bag to police headquarters today.

The bag, Detective Inspector Will Griffin explained, contained $1,000 in $50 bills, $1,000 in one dollar bills, and $100 in dimes.

The bag disappeared from a parking lot here yesterday, and Inspector Griffin broadcast an announcement to the "two women" he said found it telling them they could "have themselves embarrassed" by communicating with police.

Griffin said a minister brought the bag to police headquarters in behalf of a woman who handed it to him.

The officer did not name the preacher, or the woman. He said the owner of the bag is a Newbern (Tenn.) banker.

'BOOM-TIME WIZARD' $8,502,778 IN DEBT

Florida Files Bankruptcy Petition Listing Assets at Only $400.

MIAMI, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—Hugh M. Anderson, who headed one of the most ambitious real estate developments of the Florida boom, filed a bankruptcy petition today listing liabilities of $8,502,778.84 and assets of $400.

In the fabulous days of 1925 Anderson was president of the Shoreland Company, which promoted Miami Shores, a 2,800-acre waterfront development just north of the city limits, conceived as a $300,000,000 project. He also developed the Venetian Islands in Biscayne bay and was one of the builders of Biscayne boulevard along the bayfront.

Miami Shores, which changed its name to North Miami in 1927, was opened for sale December 4, 1924. The first day's sale of lots totaled $2,509,170 and one year later the company reported sales totaling $75,008,355, including resales by the original purchasers.

Anderson came to Miami from Chattanooga in 1910 and grew citrus until the start of the boom. He is in the real estate brokerage business in North Miami now. He filed the bankruptcy petition to liquidate the old obligations, principally commitments he made to finance his developments.

Thieves With Truck Get Load of Lumber

E. M. Willingham, sawmill and lumber yard operator at 2114 Piedmont road, had an irate customer yesterday morning and admitted being slightly peeved himself. Sometime yesterday morning in the wee sma' hours, choosy thieves drove a truck into his lumber yard, selected a load of pine plank boards awaiting delivery this morning and drove off to an unknown destination.

The load was of 12-inch board dressed on one side only and had been cut only Monday for a customer. The lumber is easily recognizable, Willingham said, because of its being dressed on one side only instead of the usual four, and he said he would enjoy paying a reward to anyone telling him of the final destination of the pilfered wood and the identity of the choosy thieves.

NEW WAGE INCREASES GIVEN MILL WORKERS IN SOUTHEAST SECTION

Unionization Drive, Now
Under Way, To Cover
Area, Says Nance.

Fresh wage increases and textile unionization maneuvers vied for the attention of southeastern cotton mill workers yesterday.

From fragmentary reports, tabulations estimated 190,255 of the 350,000 mill employees in the cotton belt had shared in an annual pay increase of $16,419,000 since January 1.

Labor leaders said the average weekly pay was $13.50 and indicated that wage and hour revisions were not sufficiently widespread to offset an increase in living costs.

A. Steve Nance, southeastern director of the textile workers' organization committee, opened headquarters in Atlanta.

"Thirty organizers now in the field will confer here Saturday," Nance said. "Operations will cover the area from North Carolina to Texas."

Pay increases of from 5 to 15 per cent have been announced by executives of 294 cotton mills in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. Not all disclosed the amount of money involved.

Many plants worked double shifts to meet the demand for cloth which has been attended by rising prices.

Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., said in an address at Chapel Hill, N. C., Monday night, that mill executives would not combine against the unionizing campaign of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

"There will be, however, concentrated action on the part of the industry," elimination of a code of fair trade practices, all of which look to the greater stability of the industry and a return to prosperity."

T. Scott Roberts, president of the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers' Association, said a majority of Alabama's 96 mills plan to give pay increases of from 5 to 15 per cent, with the old NRA textile code minimum of $12 for a 40-hour week.

North and South Carolina led in the increases with raises for 112,255 workers in 158 mills.

MOTHER IN FLORIDA
CONVICTED OF PERJURY

SARASOTA, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—A circuit court jury required only 15 minutes to convict Mae Hall, of Arcadia, on a perjury charge today.

Sentence was deferred when her attorneys, W. D. Bell, Arcadia, and S. Watt Lawlor, Fort Myers, announced they intended to file a motion for a new trial. Judge Harrison set April 13 for arguments.

The mother of several children, Mrs. Hall was held for perjury in connection with testimony offered at a murder trial last October. She made statements attributed to Lawrence E. Ford, one of the defendants. Ford, Finis Williams and Bill Taylor were on trial for slaying Donald Norton, in Glades county on February 2, 1935. It resulted in a mistrial.

Joke Saves Drunk Where Bible Failed

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—(UP)—Magistrate Atkinson Costello was tiring of James Downey's Biblical verse when the latter was arraigned on charges of drunkenness.

"Sorry, but it won't save you. I'll have to give you 30 days," Downey pleaded.

"Did you ever hear the one about the fellow who stole the watch? He was brought up just like I am. The lawyer got the case, the judge got the works, and the prisoner got the time."

The magistrate let him go.

ARTHUR CAIN RETURNS TO ACCLAIM OF CITY

motorcycle escort heading a parade line, which included a sound truck, Austin Abbott's big cream open car, Mayor Hartsfield's official car and automobiles of his friends.

Climbing atop the back seat of the open car, he greeted Atlantans at the station over the sound truck microphone.

"They told me in China that Peiping is the center of the universe," he said. "But as far as I'm concerned, it's right here."

After that, the sirens opened up and Cain was whisked into Forsyth street and across the full length of downtown Atlanta.

Stranger in Home Town.
Cain was just like a stranger in his own town. As he rode down Peachtree street atop the back seat of Abbott's car he could not restrain himself from looking up at the towering buildings.

Pedestrians and passing motorists alike received a friendly wave from the young adventurer.

One thing was more evident than anything else. Cain was gloriously glad to be back home. Strangers on the street were "old friends" to him, all because they were here in his home town.

The parade ended at Forsyth and Alabama streets, in front of The Constitution, the newspaper in which Cain's letters and his adventures were published during his hectic trip across the face of the globe.

Wrote Impressions.
There he managed to leave his mother and go to the city newspaper, where he wrote down his impressions of his arrival.

Cain has absorbed a lot of practical knowledge about the 57 foreign countries he has visited. Anxious to get back to his home, which he still hadn't seen while writing his story, he took only a short time for conversation, but was glad to answer the legion of questions hurled at him.

He liked Cairo, Egypt, best of all the cities he visited.

He did walk that 400 miles from Leningrad to Moscow.

He had to have his 98-cent camera shipped across Russia because of stringent Soviet laws.

Has Grown Mustache.
He has grown a mustache, which he officially will christen on his 24th birthday this May.

And he is glad to be back home.

Cain will probably be called on to do more talking during the next few months than a less able person could stand up under.

Already he is being called on for autographs—a thing which seemed to surprise him exceedingly.

Plans for the future? Get a job, go to work—and stay at home awhile.

Hitch-Hiking Boy Comes Home Again—to Acclaim

An official welcome and a police escort through the city was accorded Arthur Cain, The Atlanta Constitution's globe-girdling hitch-hiker, upon his return to Atlanta yesterday morning from a two-year "tour of the world." Pictured above are, left to right, Mayor Hartsfield, Mrs. N. O. Cain, Arthur's mother; Arthur himself, and Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution.

Arthur Cain, Atlanta's globe-girdling hitch-hiker, rode out of Atlanta two years ago on a cabbage truck at the start of his world tour, but was welcomed back to the city yesterday morning with all the pomp accorded a visiting celebrity.

He is shown waving to the crowd from atop the back seat of the official car. Others on the rear seat are, left to right, Mrs. M. C. Holder, of Buffalo, N. Y., an aunt of young Cain; his grandmother, Mrs. E. C. Cain, of Atlanta, and his mother, Mrs. N. O. Cain. Driving the car is Austin Abbott and sitting with him is Howard Haile, a member of The Constitution's welcoming committee.

Strikers hurled red pepper in the faces of garment workers and partly stripped one another as disorders broke out again at the Nona-Lee Dress Company.

Police arrested two girls, 18 and 19 years old, on charges of threatened breach of the peace and disorderly conduct. The two denied throwing pepper.

Non-striker who ventured out of the plant for lunch was attacked by strikers and her clothing badly torn before police rescued her.

A modified injunction order, pickers and members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union kept to the outside of the sidewalk about the plant.

The injunction was issued last week after rioting in which several women were dispersed as they attempted to return to work.

The major issue is union recognition.

To all those who proclaimed my release by receiving me at the train I am sincerely grateful and to those whom I missed the chance to say hello to (being involved in behaving myself at the time) I leave a warm hug. I shall soon visit you and regale you with all manner of nonsense and thomastoolery.

In the meanwhile I love you but I am also fond of lunch so I shall tool my way to the nearest eatery and start catching up.

Negro Axman Finds $6,500 Pot by Slip

CHESTER, S. C., March 30.—(AP)—Tobin and Matthew Crank, negro brothers, brought an old iron kettle containing $6,500 in gold coins to a local bank today and Tobin explained he came upon the treasure while he was cutting wood.

He said that his ax missed its mark and struck into the ground causing a metallic sound. An investigation revealed the gold.

All of the coins were American and some were dated 1850. One bearing an 1851 date eliminated belief that the small fortune was buried when the federal army marched into the south during the War Between the States.

The property, near here, belongs to the Crank estate and the money probably will be divided among seven members of the family.

SENATE COMMITTEE NEARS TEST ON COURT

critics of the Roosevelt plan and asserted the supreme court itself "has proved that the President is right."

He said that Associate Justice McReynolds stands "condemned by his own test as a poor sportsman," upbraided Senator Borah, Idaho Republican, with charges of inconsistency, and accused Senator Glass, Virginia Democrat, of using "vitriolic and extravagant language."

Twice the majority leader made it abundantly clear that the court's about-face on the minimum wage issue has not diminished the administration's determination that the court legislation shall be enacted.

Meanwhile the committee heard testimony opposing the measure from Professor Edwin B. Griswold, 32-year-old member of the Harvard law school faculty, and John D. Miller, president of the National Co-operative Council.

The supreme court's reversal yesterday of its 14-year-old position on state minimum wage laws, dominated the questioning of witnesses, as it did discussion of the court issue elsewhere.

One committee member, Dieterich, Democrat, Illinois, in questioning Griswold, contended that public discussion of the court bill had "influenced" the court.

Griswold, however, contended that far from being denounced for inconsistency, the court should be praised for its "justice and courage," in casting aside the precedent which had controlled its decisions on such laws.

Resigns To Aid Plan.
The day also brought the resignation of Raymond B. Stevens, of New Hampshire, from the tariff commission so he might be free to "take an active part" in advocating the President's court proposal.

"It should put an end to 'tortured constructions' of the constitution that embody the economic predilections of individual judges," he said in a letter to the President.

"I am confident that your proposal will be adopted if there is wide public understanding of its purpose, and I desire to take an active part in its support."

Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, in an address urged the substitution of a constitutional amendment.

Addressing the North Carolina Institute of Human Relations, he said that under the bill the President would have to "take chances" on the appointment of judges to the supreme court, "but no such chance would be taken if we should proceed by way of amendments to the constitution."

INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL HEAD HITS REVAMPING OF COURT

NEW ORLEANS, March 30.—(AP)—President J. E. Edgerston, of the Southern States Industrial Council, today proposed a revision of the constitution to raise the question which congress and the people must decide as to "whether we want a real constitutional government or a dictatorship."

Before these developments, Detective Wallis said he and his aides believed the articles found were evidence of the existence of a foreign spy organization, "but that such would be a matter for government authorities to investigate."

Novak was identified by Mrs. Ralph E. Barnett, of 1306 Beecher street, as one of the 23 persons who were indicted last July 14 by a Gainesville grand jury in connection with sales of National Service Company and other stocks.

He was an alleged partner in the Kopal-Quinn bookshop operation and was arrested in New York on March 12.

LOUISIANA CHAIN TAX ATTACKED AS UNFAIR

Levy Tamed Extra-Territorial Before U. S. Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP)—The supreme court heard Louisiana's chain store tax attacked today as an extra-territorial and unfair levy.

Monte M. Lemmon, of New Orleans, attorney for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company and 16 other businesses classed as "chain stores," appealed from a three-judge federal district court ruling in New Orleans upholding the tax.

He said the tax, imposed in 1936, required businesses to pay license fees for each store on a basis of the total number of stores in their chains, regardless of how many stores are outside Louisiana.

Lemmon argued that chains with all stores within the state but with a relatively small total, paid less tax than those with many more stores in the state.

He said the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, with a total of 15,000 stores, paid a maximum tax of $500 a store though it had only slightly more stores in Louisiana than a New Orleans chain which he said paid $30 a store.

E. L. Richardson, counsel for the Louisiana collector of revenue, will defend the tax tomorrow.

JAPANESE ARRESTED; 'SPY RING' IS FEARED

Golf Clubs, Soda and Radio Receiver Found in Los Angeles Room.

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(AP)—Police detectives, saying they sensed possible espionage activities, informed federal authorities today a queer assortment of articles had been found in a Japanese rooming house Sunday night after a knife brawl.

Held in jail was Buichiro Abo, 59-year-old bath house proprietor, who said he had lived in this country since 1900.

Detectives said they found two real estate maps of Hilo, Hawaii, and a 1934 chart of the Los Angeles water system in a trunk in the basement of Abo's rooming house.

In his room they found parts of a radio receiving set, binoculars, a compass, a film projector, golf clubs, and other items. A white powder was also found.

Detective Captain Joseph Filkas said Abo told him the trunk was left by a previous tenant.

The maps at first were reported to be diagrams of Hawaiian fortifications, but Filkas later said they could be bought at book stores. Investigators also learned later that water system charts are available at real estate offices.

The white powder turned out to be bicarbonate of soda. An examination was made to determine if it was some invisible ink preparation.

Before these developments, Detective Wallis said he and his aides believed the articles found were evidence of the existence of a foreign spy organization, "but that such would be a matter for government authorities to investigate."

'MODEL' YOUTH ADMITS SLAYING OF GIRL, 18, SERIES OF SEX CRIMES

Nabbed on Way From Buffalo Church, He Says Brain Would 'Click.'

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 30.—(AP) A "good boy" who was arrested on his way from church confessed today, Police Commissioner Higgins announced, that he was the slayer of his 18-year-old neighbor, Mary Ellen Babcock.

Higgins also said the prisoner, Thomas Smith, 18, confessed to having stabbed 14-year-old Frances Fitzgerald, of Buffalo, with an ice pick in an automobile Sunday night. Her physician reported that her condition was "fair" tonight.

A former honor student in high school, Smith was called by his mother and brother a "good, clean-cut lad, who never drank or smoked and didn't go out to parties or dances." His father is dead.

Murder Charged.
Tonight, District Attorney W. C. Newcomb said Smith had signed a 22-page statement.

Later Newcomb filed a charge of murder against Smith at the South Park Avenue police station and announced he probably would be arraigned tomorrow.

He also said Smith had confessed to two sex crimes against girls. He lives within a few blocks of the South Buffalo field where the body of Mary Ellen Babcock, attractive daughter of a railroad man, was found February 6.

Her body was battered and stabbed, and her clothing torn. Her fingernails held flesh and human hair, evidence, police said, of a struggle with her assailant.

She had not been assaulted, however, nor had Frances Fitzgerald, who, Commissioner Higgins reported, was stabbed in the back as she tried to help Smith start his automobile Sunday night.

Nabbed Leaving Church.
Higgins said investigation of the Fitzgerald stabbing led to the arrest of Smith as he left a special Monday service in a neighborhood church.

He was held under heavy guard. "He told us," Commissioner Higgins said, "that sometimes something seemed to 'click' in his brain."

"When that happened, he would want to attack and maim. But then, suddenly, something would 'click' again, and the impulse would be gone."

Lorgnette 'Freezes' Bouncer in Senate

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP) A new use for the lorgnette, or how to avoid the bum's rush:

A prim, gray-haired woman in the senate gallery became so carried away today with the oratory of Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, that she broke into applause at the conclusion of his address on crop insurance.

Grimly, an usher headed for her. Before he reached her, however, she seized her lorgnette and gazed with severe propriety on all about her. The usher, nonplussed, withdrew.

CRASH WITNESSES BACK ICE THEORY

Flyer Uses Tiny Model To Demonstrate Movements of Ill-Fated Ship.

FLYER'S CLUB, Allegheny County Airport, Pittsburgh, March 30.—(UP)—A major airline disaster as seen from the air was described late today before a government inquiry board by two pilots who saw a giant Transcontinental and Western Air passenger ship crash to a hillside last Thursday night, killing 13 persons.

Captain A. M. Wilkins and Lawrence W. Williams, both T. W. A. pilots, testified before a board of Bureau of Air Commerce investigators, they encountered light ice on their trip, but not enough to interfere with their flight.

Wilkins used a tiny, silver model to demonstrate the movements of the ill-fated T. W. A. skyliner a minute before it spiraled to the ground. He is believed to have been the only transport pilot to view the crash of another skyliner from the cabin of his plane while in flight.

T. W. A.'s explanation was that ice formed on the ailerons—hinged slots in the rear of the wings—and disrupted the lateral balance of the ship, causing it to spin to earth out of control of Pilot Lawrence Bonnet as he was preparing to land at Pittsburgh on the Newark-to-Chicago flight.

Her body was battered and stabbed, and her clothing torn. Her fingernails held flesh and human hair, evidence, police said, of a struggle with her assailant.

She had not been assaulted, however, nor had Frances Fitzgerald, who, Commissioner Higgins reported, was stabbed in the back as she tried to help Smith start his automobile Sunday night.

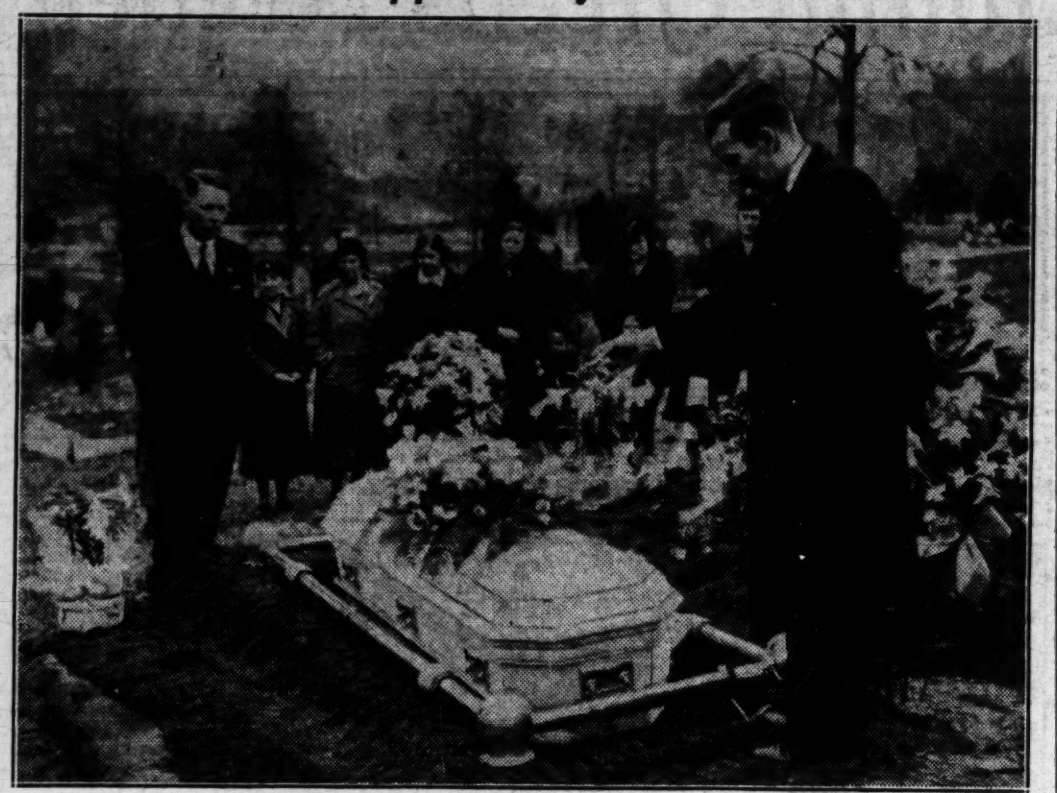

He was held under heavy guard. "He told us," Commissioner Higgins said, "that sometimes something seemed to 'click' in his brain."

"When that happened, he would want to attack and maim. But then, suddenly, something would 'click' again, and the impulse would be gone."

'Dust to Dust' --- Apple Mary Goes to Eternal Rest

Yesterday afternoon, in Hollywood cemetery, all that is mortal of Mary Brace, "Apple Mary," was laid in the grave beside her husband, there to wait for the Resurrection morn when she shall rise again, not "Lady for a Day" but "Lady for All Eternity." Dr. Louis D. Newton, who conducted the impressive funeral services in the chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condor and at the graveside, is shown as he spoke the ancient words, "Dust to dust," while the attendant in the foreground lets fall a handful of crumpled lily leaves upon the slowly descending casket.

Apple Mary Brace Is Laid to Rest In Shrine by Side of Husband

Friends From All Walks of Life Gather at Services To Pay
Final Tribute to Gentlewoman Who Asked Nothing
More Than a Lady's Burial.

By RALPH T. JONES.
They laid Mary Brace, "Lady for a Day," to rest yesterday afternoon in that gentle bed of warm earth, beneath the stars of heaven, where she had waited for five years to receive her worn form into eternal peace.

Fulfilling one of her last requests, Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, read the 23rd Psalm as they lowered the casket into the grave.

"The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want."
The grand old words sounded over the hillside in Hollywood cemetery as the crowd of those who mourned stood with bowed heads.

"Earth to earth—"
They dropped a handful of crushed lily blossoms on the white casket lid. They turned away with one last look and returned to the busy streets of life which shall know Mary Brace no more.

Remains in Memory.
The story of Atlanta's "Lady for a Day" is told, the final chapter has been closed and she remains, today, nothing but a memory and an inspiration in the hearts of all those hundreds who knew her as a vendor of newspapers and a peddler of apples, candy and chewing gum.

Funeral services were held at high noon in the chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condor. There was gathered a congregation of her friends, those she knew in life and those who felt the sympathetic touch of a kindred spirit. There were all sorts and conditions of people. Probably a cross section of her friendship circle in life.

There were other elderly women who had sold papers on the same streets with Mary Brace. Old women all Atlanta knows by sight, but whose hearts hold secrets, just as did hers, of which we never dream. There was the police officer off the beat, where Mary had had her stand. He knew her and said, yesterday, that for years she had made the lives of all who came within her reach sweeter and brighter because of the utter happiness of her disposition and the beauty of her smile.

There were little children she had helped in life and there were businessmen and office workers, stenographers and file clerks and bookkeepers and office boys, who had bought of her humble wares so often.

There were friends from the background of her days and there were new friends, come to pay tribute before the bier of a woman whose example and inspiration will make Atlanta a better place in which to live, for us all.

There were, too, a few of that strange legion, the ladies of the pavement who, perhaps, owed to "Apple Mary" the help of a kindly smile when a smile was tragically needed.

Dr. Newton told, as he delivered the funeral sermon, of his conversations with the "Lady for a Day" as she lay upon her death bed in Steiner clinic. He used as a text the verse Mary had told him was her favorite. "All things work together for good to those who love God."

Character Revealed.
He spoke of her sweet character and her life devoted to work for others. He told of her hands, made beautiful by selfless toil, and he told of her spirit which never realized she had a

Pickpocket Is Aide In 'Securing' Loan

Trust not the smiling stranger, Hiram C. Brown, Alpharetta farmer, warned his fellow man yesterday.

It seems a well-dressed smiling young fellow, wearing a brown sport suit, had instructed Farmer Brown in the necessary procedure to obtain a $100 loan in a downtown bank. Brown thanked the stranger for his information, obtained the loan and boarded a street car to return home.

Later, Brown recalled, the smiling, brown-clad gentleman jostled him as he boarded the car. After he had reached his farm he found the $100, which had been carefully pocketed, had disappeared.

General she desired, "one fitted for a lady" was provided, but more was given, enough to provide some simple wants and to leave a little over.

The funeral of which she had dreamed, the promise that had made her last days of life content, was hers, yesterday.

No one in all the great city had a finer, nor better deserved, tribute spoken at his funeral than the tribute paid yesterday to Apple Mary.

No flowers more lovely than the great bank of lilies and roses that graced her final rites were ever placed around a casket.

No more sincere group ever followed in funeral cortege than that which, yesterday, accompanied Mary Brace, the "Lady for a Day," to her last resting place on earth.

She is gone, but her memory will live, to make smoother the path for all the halting souls who knew her.

FEDERAL PRISONER LEAPS FROM AUTO

Man Taken on Liquor Charge
Flees When Car Is Stopped in Traffic.

Escape of a federal prisoner, listed as "Roy Smith," from agents of the Alcohol Tax Unit Monday was revealed yesterday in a hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith. "Smith" escaped in heavy Atlanta traffic while being taken in by the agents. There was no wild chase, no shots fired.

An alleged accomplice, listed as Bill Woodward, 18, of 94 North avenue, Atlanta, was held under $1,000 bond on liquor law charges. The two were arrested in Dekalb county in an automobile with 200 gallons of non-tax-paid whisky.

While they were being taken to the commissioner's office for a preliminary hearing, the car was caught in heavy traffic and Smith leaped out and escaped.

Woodward denied complicity, telling the commissioner he had caught a ride with Smith in Forsyth county, but admitted that he knew it was whisky. He was sitting on it, he said. He also admitted that he was now under $300 bond "about riding on a load of liquor with Tom Whitfield."

SOCIALISTS WILL STIR REVOLT IF WAR STARTS

Party Resolution Indicates
Continuance of Leftward Swing.

CHICAGO, March 30.—(UP)—Socialists will seize upon the next war as an opportunity for revolution, the party's new national executive committee decided today in a continuation of the leftward swing which has led some conservatives to resign.

The committee, adopting a resolution which the socialist special convention had left over when it adjourned last night, declared it was "the object of the Socialist party in event of war to persuade mass organizations of labor to adopt our program of turning the war into an occasion for social revolution."

It found that "capitalist powers are arming at wartime speed."

"A new world war," the committee said, "will merely be the continuation by military methods of an incessant imperialist rivalry among all the capitalist powers. The root of the new war will be the capitalist system, not its Fascist form. And the motive behind the capitalist governments entering the war will be imperialistic."

Support of the Soviet Union by the working class was urged by "refusing support of any war of any capitalist country, by undermining the war machine, and by incessantly preparing the working class by uninterrupted class struggle to overthrow the rule of the capitalists."

The resolution declared that neutrality legislation passed under capitalism cannot keep a nation out of war.

Congress Finds Its Bloodhounds Are Most Gentle

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP) Congress discovered today that it uses only gentle bloodhounds to persuade convicts to stay put in its prisons.

The bloodhound problem came up in connection with the $45,000,000 District of Columbia supply bill, which was reported by the house appropriations committee. The 435 members of congress function as the multiple mayor of Washington. Thus they are in charge of the tender-hearted bloodhounds on duty at the city's two penal institutions, Lorton and Occoquan.

Representative Ross A. Collins, Mississippi, Democrat, conducting the hearings, wanted to know whether the workhouses had any mechanical devices to guard prisoners.

"Do you consider a bloodhound a mechanical device, Mr. Congressman?" queried Elwood Street, director of public welfare. Collins side-stepped that one.

Workhouse Business Manager E. Joseph Aronoff, testified: "Our dogs are trained to be gentle."

He said the bloodhounds were used "to persuade prisoners not to run away and to pursue them when they do."

Machine-Like Work Around Greens Needed To Win—Jones

AUGUSTA NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—It was just after lunch and wee Bobby Cruickshank, the grand little Scot from Richmond, was pulling on his spiked shoes in the locker room.

"I see," he said, "they have got Bob at 20 to 1, and so, that being it, I put a wee bet on the lad. I had one last year and the year before. And you may say for Bobby Cruickshank he will be having a wee bit on the lad when his bloody whiskers are down to here," he said, showing his hand across his middle. "Yes, sir, I think the lad needs only to get a bit of the old spark. And that's what Bobby Cruickshank thinks."

The little chunk of a man is almost alone in those thoughts. The others are putting the old eye on him and saying his swing isn't grooved, and it isn't. They are saying he was tied for ninth the first year and 25th the next. And that last year he was 33d. And downtown the bookies, who are not sentimentalists, have Jones at 20 to 1. He was 30 to 1. In each of the past three years they had him the favorite to win this Masters' tournament.

Looking at that Bobby Cruickshank said, "I don't care what they bloody well say. Cruickshank says the lad may do it almost any time."

At any rate the story is changed. In each of the three past years Jones has been the favorite. This year they are trying to ignore him and forget all about him as a threat. But the old ghost won't down. It comes back to the banquet table or the cocktail bar or to the talkfest in some smoke-filled room.

Never a man but counts Jones out but that he looks over his shoulder and there is the ghost of the Jones of 1930 shaking his figuratively gory locks at him. And the man always says, "Put a little more fresher in my glass will you." He needs it. He feels a little chill somehow.

BOBBY CRUICKSHANK.

THE OLD HUNCH.

Most of my hunches go wrong. But one of them has been riding me all week. And that was that Jones would scramble around and come home with a fighting chance before that last day dawns.

I saw him on the putting green today. He looks thinner. He has shed some years with the weight and he looks as he might be ready to enter his sophomore year at college.

"How is it going?" "Terrible," he said, and then went out and proved it with a round which was just fair. He teamed with Ed Dudley to play a round with Sam Snead, the West Virginian, and Harry Cooper, the English-born professional who is the favorite here today.

He'll have to scramble to do it. But he seems to be playing golf as if he didn't care whether school kept or not. And that's the only way for him to play.

If he can just get up there and take good, healthy swipes at that ball without worrying where it goes, he may scramble right down to the wire.

Well, that's one of those McGill hunches which are not always 100 per cent right. Very often hunches turn out to be just a bunch of radishes.

GEORGE SARGENT.

In fact, it was just as the hunch reached large proportions, that I met George Sargent, of East Lake and the open champion of 1909.

"Jones doesn't have to get back into competition," said Sargent.

"If he did he would have to change his entire game. We all know that when a man reaches 30 his wrists, hands and legs begin to go.

"If Jones went back today he'd have to change his game. He always played a strong game. He'd have to go in for accuracy. That's what Harry Vardon did. He changed his game. And at 50 years of age he was about as good as any of them.

"Jones' swing isn't grooved as it was. In fact, you can't keep a golf swing grooved without a lot of good, hard work and competition."

The hunch looked perfectly anemic after that. But it's still there. And I keep noticing that the boys who count Jones out shiver and look over their shoulders. It isn't easy.

HE'S PUTTING BETTER.

Jones took part in a perfectly amazing foursome this afternoon. He teamed with Ed Dudley against Harry Cooper and Sam Snead.

They finished all square, each side having a best ball which was nine under the par of 72. Jones helped out on three holes, having a 72, even par.

Ed Dudley had a 66 with eight birdies on the card. He started three, five, three, two against a par of four, five, four, three. Which will do for a start.

"Gosh," he said, "I wish I could get that 66 later in the week."

Bobby Jones was putting better than I've seen him since he retired from the wars. His putts were a bit off line but they were still better putts than he has been getting. And this Augusta National golf course is a chipping and putting course. Jones' chief weakness in past years here at Augusta has been his putting.

You may see from this I am trying to build back my hunch to a respectable size once more. And the hunch is not that Jones will win but that he will be in the money. I am sort of like wee Bobby Cruickshank in that I will still believe in the possibility of Jones even when his beard is bloody well down to his belt buckle.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL COURSE.

This is the most beautiful golf course in the world. I say that with perfect freedom despite the fact I have not seen quite all the golf courses in the world.

As I sit here on the veranda of the old house, standing here more than 100 years, there is a great vista of green and flowering beauty out ahead. There is an ancient wisteria vine which has climbed all through a great tree. From it hang a perfect wilderness of the delicate lavender blooms which, against the green leaves, make up a pattern of green and lavender lace, and farther on is the rolling sweep of land with green trees against a somber sky and within the trees the fire of the dog-wood.

Closer at hand are flowering shrubs. There are red ones

BRADLEY-EVANS BASEBALL CASE SET THURSDAY

Judge Landis Also To Hear Henrich-Milwaukee Affair Argued.

NEW ORLEANS, March 30.—(AP) Judge Keneaw Landis indicated today that the double-header of Tommy Henrich versus the Milwaukee baseball club and President Alva Bradley, of the Cleveland Indians, versus Billy Evans, of the Boston Red Sox, would start promptly on Thursday.

The baseball high commissioner, who arrived here today from his winter home in Florida, will be present in his customary role as umpire.

Henrich, currently with the Milwaukee club, has charged that he was sold to them by the New Orleans Pelicans in a deal with Pitcher Winegarner for a combined price of $7,500. Henrich asserts that he is worth $15,000 on the baseball market, a charge that was substantiated yesterday when Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, said he would pay $20,000 for Henrich's signature.

Judge Landis refused to comment on the case today.

"All I know is the boy wrote me a letter and asked that I investigate his case. That is what I am going to do on Thursday."

Henrich maintains that he has been "covered up" by the Cleveland baseball club and instead of being taken up to the majors is being held in reserve until the Indians need him. Cleveland has an arrangement with both the New Orleans and the Milwaukee club for the development of players.

The Bradley-Evans event is expected to bring into the open a long smoldering feud.

Bradley has charged that Evans, formerly the general manager of the Cleveland team and now managing the Red Sox farm system, had an ulterior motive in writing a baseball article in which Evans asserted Henrich was worth an easy $15,000.

"He's (Evans) not bothering me," Bradley said today. "But I intend to have all this brought out into the open. I am going to ask Judge Landis to summon Evans to the hearing Thursday."

Bradley also charged Evans with a "breach of ethics." At his Little Rock (Ark.) camp Evans retorted that he would have to look "breach of ethics" up before making a suitable reply.

From his training camp at Gulfport, Miss., where he is working out with the Milwaukee team, Henrich said today he would abide by any decision Judge Landis makes.

"Whatever he decides will be O. K. with me," Henrich said. "I am going to abide by his decision and if he says I belong to the Milwaukee club that's all right."

CANINE ENTRIES CLOSE ON FRIDAY

Friday is the last day that entries can be accepted for the annual dog show of the Atlanta Kennel Club, it was announced yesterday by Vinton Brown, chairman of the dog show committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, along with the Rabun Gap Nacoochee Junior Guild, are co-operating with the Atlanta Kennel Club in holding this year's show.

Brown urges local exhibitors to send in their entry blanks immediately as American Kennel Club rules prohibit the acceptance of any that are received after Friday. Entries will be acknowledged the same day they are received and the exhibitor will be given an identification card, exhibitor's ticket and a number tag corresponding to the stall number of the dog entered.

Entrance fee for each dog in each class entered is $2, except American bred and open classes, which are $3. Brace class and team class are $2 per "brace" or "team," but the dogs comprising them must have been entered in one regular breed class. There will be no charge for local classes, which are for dogs owned within a radius of 50 miles of Atlanta, but in order to be eligible for the local class a dog must first be entered in one regular breed class.

Make all checks payable to the Atlanta Kennel Club and mail with entries to Mrs. R. C. Hackman, superintendent, care H. G. Hastings Company, Mitchell street, Atlanta, Ga.

Entries are pouring in daily from Atlanta, the southeast, and other points throughout the country. The American Kennel Club has arranged the schedule of dog shows in the southeast this year in such a way that exhibitors and fanciers can attend the entire series.

The series began in Bristol, Tenn., on March 23 and moved to Knoxville and Memphis. Chattanooga will have its show on April 1 and 2 and then will move on to Birmingham, Montgomery and Atlanta. From here, many of the exhibitors will move on to Savannah, Charleston, Charlotte, Asheville and will end in Durham on April 23 and 24. This arrangement assures local dog enthusiasts of seeing fine dogs from all parts of the country.

This league is ready to close up, and they are waiting to decide whether to make it an eight or a six-club league. Any team desiring to enter this league should have someone present Thursday night.

Notable Foursome Finishes All Square After 18 Holes

Outstanding in yesterday's tune-ups for the Masters' tournament at Augusta, which opens Thursday, was a foursome featuring the above famous linksmen. Sam Snead, sensation of the winter tournaments, shown at left, and Bobby

Jones, right, played Harry Cooper, tournament favorite, shown next to Snead, and Ed Dudley, next to Cooper, to a deadlock in a colorful 18-hole match. Dudley had the best score of the day with a brilliant 66.

'Man Without a Chance,' They Say of Bob Jones

Only Sentiment Gets Former King Among 20-1 Shots; "I'll Have To Be Lucky"—Cooper.

By Paul Mickelson.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—Hooks, slices and divots from the battle ground of Augusta National Golf Championship:

Long shot . . . seven years ago, Bobby Jones swept the world with his unerring magic. Today, he came back to Augusta as a "man without a chance." As the stars of the nation's fairways and traps engaged in their semi-final workouts for the big show, the one-time mechanical man of golf stood out as a forlorn long shot at 20 to 1.

Only sentiment got Bobby among the 20 to 1 shots. Cold book-makers originally placed him at 32 to 1, but cut the odds as sentimental hero worshippers of yesterday backed their mild outrage with cash on the line.

Bobby is 36 years old and looks like a youngster of 26, thinner than he's been in years. But the smart boys say he's a walking example of futility in this show.

LACKS CONFIDENCE. As Jones played a tune-up tilt today, he made some fine shots but his confidence was missing. Bobby had just a good time for himself. He refuses to kid himself, doesn't expect to win, doesn't have to win. He's still the greatest gallery attraction in golf. They'll never have to throw any benefits for him.

Favorite . . . standing out as favorite at 10 to 1—odds that only relatives would notice—was Light-horse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, leading money winner of the winter tour. "I'll have to be good—and lucky to whip this crowd," said Cooper, a truly great player who has finally licked his explosive temperament.

Horton Smith, winner of two of the three Augusta nations, ranked right next or alongside Cooper but Horton just won at Pinehurst and it is seldom any golfer wins two winter titles in a row. Horton tuned up with blinches today. He played a foursome with Miss Barbara Bourne, New York heiress, against Miss Bourne's father, A. S. Bourne, and her brother, Severin. Severin took a mighty poke at his first tee shot and knocked it 10 yards. Horton's blinches stretched four holes west of the fifth trap.

COLLARLESS SARAZEN. Gene Sarazen, parading abroad as the "thin man golf" after a weight-reducing campaign at Safety Harbor, Fla., vowed he'd wear no man's collar in this heat. "I got a secret club in my bag and it looks like the old spoon I used to ensure that double eagle with back in 1935," said Gene.

Hooks . . . even sit-down strikes can't stop golf. Many of the Detroit automobile manufacturing executives were on hand with their thoughts far away from striking squatters. . . . Big Ed Dudley and Cooper gave the gallery its thrill by holing chip shots, one after another, for birdies on the third green as they played with Jones and Sam Snead, current golfing sensation.

If you can chip in, so can I," Cooper told Dudley. And he did. Julius Berckmans, club manager, kept a hard eye on the weather, which never has done many favors for the tournament. The forecast was rain or snow for tomorrow. Manager Berckmans, a handsome old gentleman in

MAX SCHMELING BACK IN BERLIN

BERLIN, March 30.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight contender, arrived home today from a flying trip to the United States where he vainly sought to swing a deal whereby he would fight Champion Jimmy Braddock for the title here this summer.

Apparently disgusted by the muddled boxing situation in America, Schmeling said he planned to "sit back and let things ripen" before he returns to New York April 22. Recent developments, he said, made him feel sure that the Berlin bout still was his explosive temperament.

BOBBY DUDLEY, COOPER - SNEAD END ALL SQUARE

Cooper Favorite at 10 to 1; Burke, Thomson Turn in 69's.

By Kenneth Gregory.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—The golfing greats of America, including Robert Tyre Jones Jr., one-time champion of the world and winner of 13 major titles, invaded this resort city today to survey the battle ground where the Augusta National tournament's fourth running gets under way on April Fool's Day.

Jones, in retirement since 1930, except for this tournament bringing together the masters of the links by invitation, finished far down the list on three previous attempts because of erratic putting. He predicted today it would take machine-like work around the greens to win the 1937 renewal.

"It's going to take accurate second shots or else the fellow who is sinking the putts will win," said Bob, whose inability to concentrate about the greens found him trailing the all-star field the last three years.

SNEAD CANS SIX-FOOTER. Jones paired with Ed Dudley, Augusta and Philadelphia pro, in a best-ball match against Lighthouse Harry Cooper and Sam Snead, the rookie sensation of 1936 from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., today in a match that ended all even when Jones canned a six-footer on the 15th hole.

While at least a half-dozen of the ranking money-players were cracking par 72 figures of the beautiful Augusta layout, Jones equaled the card of 36-36. Snead was two under. Cooper had a sub-par 71 and Dudley, the Augusta National pro, paced the day's practice with a fine 66, six under par.

A sharp and cold northwest wind swept the course today. The weather bureau had predicted snow. The temperature dropped to almost freezing, with a forecast of clear and colder tomorrow. Cold and rain handicapped play in the three previous tournaments.

Billy Burke, of Cleveland, Ohio, a former open champion, and Jimmy Thomson, of New York, the blond-haired siege run of long-range, clipped three strokes from regulation figures on practice rounds with 69's.

McSPADEN CARDS 70. In the parade of par-crackers were Harold (Clug) McSpaden, of Boston, Mass., and Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of Louisville, Ky., with 70's, while Captain Francis, of Great Britain, and Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa., fired 71's.

Cooper, the leading money winner of the winter circuit who lost by a stroke here last year when Lanky Horton Smith blazed a spectacular finish to win with 285, was the betting favorite at odds of 10-1 against a field that numbered 45 through today's registry. Smith was listed 11 to 1.

Jones, the former Joplin, Mo., ghost and third in money winnings for the winter campaign, won the inaugural tournament in 1934, noosing out Craig Wood, of New York, by one stroke with a 284. In 1935 the dapper little Gene Sarazen, of Brookfield Center, Conn., put the skids to Wood again.

Sarazen fired the shot of the last open champion, Picard, second in money winnings, and Sarazen were quoted at 12 to 1. They were followed by Jimmy Hines, of Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., and Kr. Laffoon, of Chicago, and Ralph Guidahl, of St. Louis, at 14 to 1, and Byron Nelson, of Reading, Pa., at 15 to 1.

Laffoon, who finished eighth in 1936, yesterday manufactured a neat 68, the lowest practice card thus far and one short of Jones' record 64. After his great 68, Laffoon's odds dropped from 22 to 1 to 14 to 1. He fired a 40-35-73 today.

Jones, who said he hoped to save some of his fine scores for his fourth tussle with the star-studded field, had a run of 66, 67, 68 and 69 at his home course in Atlanta before coming here. He was sitting the ball well today but found his putts rolling off the although well-gauged as to distance.

Russell Bobbitt Upsets Buxby 6-4, 2-6, 13-11

GRANT DEFEATS Vernon Marcum IN RAIN, 6-4, 6-4

Billy Reese Extends Hendrix; Riggs-Courts Postponed Until Today.

By Betty Mathis.

Favorites were getting along with some difficulty, but still managing to win in the second round of the Atlanta Invitation tennis tournament yesterday at the Biltmore Tennis Club until Russell Bobbitt, eighth ranking junior player, bobbed up to outlast and upset Martin Buxby, Miami, 6-4, 2-6, 13-11.

Buxby, No. 19 nationally, was seeded seventh. Bobbitt was not placed. Bily Grant, meanwhile, battling against rain, darkness and Vernon Marcum, of St. Petersburg, Fla., emerged victorious, 6-4, 6-4.

Grant, first in the seedings, plays Walter Senior, fifth, in the quarter-finals, on Thursday.

Arthur Hendrix, fourth seeded and ranked tenth nationally, had all he could do to stave off defeat at the hands of Atlanta's Billy Reese, 23rd on the national list.

Reese, who has played little of late, was in top form and kept the Florida growling with shots that could not be returned. Reese, after winning the first set, was within one point of victory in the second frame but lost his chance when he netted an easy shot.

NET GAME FAILS. Almost complete failure of Hendrix's net game after he had broken a racket in an attempted volley had fans betting on an upset.

The tricky American twist service of Hendrix (considered one of the most deceptive services in the country) was largely responsible for getting its own out of an untimely predicament. The match lasted well over two hours.

Reese, who announced before yesterday's match that he will retire from competitive tennis after this tournament, was probably would have been tempted to change his mind had he won a match so spectacular and difficult as yesterday's.

Grant, the idol of the local fans and the lad who draws cash customers through the gate even on a day like yesterday, played the sort of game for which he is not famous, in beating Marcum. None of the retrieving, soft-ball tennis for which he is famous, played like a whirlwind, racing against time to complete his match which did not begin until 5:30. A slight mist had begun to fall, but Grant knew that he would have to hurry if he wanted to avoid drenching.

BOTH PLAY FAST. So both men played with all the speed they could muster on a slippery court, already slicked by rain. Previous matches. Grant took the first three games almost at will. Then Marcum took four points on place, and won the match.

Play was deadly accurate on both sides and baselines. Grant's net game was never better, and his court strategy worked like a charm. Only by bursts of excessive speed could Marcum cope effectively with the small man.

Walter Senior, the gentleman from San Francisco, played almost carelessly at times but eliminated Hank Crawford, former Georgia Tech star, 6-3, 6-3. Senior's feet four inches gave him amazing power in his drive, which seemed to hit the court and skid, rather than bounce.

Elwood Cooke, the man from the great northwest, analyzed Dr. Kels Eoland's game quicker than most and won, 6-3, 6-0.

Joe Hunt, Los Angeles, found more trouble than he bargained for in young Bob Decker, of Miami. Decker's hand is remarkably effective, but his forehand is almost nonexistent except as a weapon of defense. All his placements came from the wrong side of the net, which skims the net by a few inches and passes an opponent who expects it to go into the net.

ATTRACTIVE MATCHES. Matches between Ted Enloe and Wayne Sabin and Bobby Riggs and Malon Courts will be included in today's play. Darkness caused the postponement. Today's singles are both scheduled for 3:30 p. m.

Today's card, originally scheduled as doubles, will see only the opening round in that division, with the two excellent singles matches as an added attraction.

All the seeded stars of the singles are entered in the team competition and form, in a different order, the seeded group. Riggs is the man to watch in the Davis cup combination of Budge and Mabo, drew top spot, with Grant and Sabin following. Both teams drew byes.

At No. 3 are Hendrix and Senior, while Buxby and Cooke complete the list. In addition ten local twosomes are entered.

MEN'S DOUBLES. The draw: Cooty Laird and Ted Zuber vs. Malon Courts and Vernon Marcum; George Silva and Henry Smith, 1-30; Gault vs. Arthur Hendrix and Walter Senior, 4-30; Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke vs. Count Buxby and Bill Moore, 2-30; Roy Felt and Partner vs. Red Enloe and Paulie Bobbitt, 4-30; Bill Moore and Bill Moore vs. Molly Williamson and Preston Chambers, 4-30; Bobby Riggs and Joe Hunt vs. The Boulware-Moore and Williamson-Chambers match is scheduled at the Atlanta Tennis Club. All other contests will go on at the Biltmore courts, Juniper and Fourth streets.

JONES IS A MAN WITHOUT CHANCE. Continued From First Sports Page. his 70's, was born in the structure now used as the clubhouse.

SHUTE PICKS 'EM. Denny Shute, P. G. A. king, picked Cooper, Smith, Sneed, Ky. Laffoon and Ralph Guldhall as the men to beat with the winner's share at 254, maybe less. Laffoon, incidentally, may quit golf to take up farming. . . . Bob Harlow said he was through fighting the P. G. A., for his old job as tournament manager. Marse Bob is doing okay by himself with a flock of others pouring in from around the country. The guy who stole Bill Melhorn's hat returned it and Wild Bill threatens to go to town. A feud is going on down behind the leading hotels with the result that usual kick-in of $7,500 by the city of Augusta for the tournament was not forthcoming. Result: Members of the Augusta National Golf Club are giving the money. It's a long story but the show's going on and it should be a pip.

McMillin Signs New Grid Pact For Ten Years

'Bo' Now Completing 3d Year at Indiana; Salary Not Disclosed.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 30. (AP)—Z. G. Cleveland, athletic director at Indiana University, announced today that A. N. (Bo) McMillin had signed a new 10-year contract as head football coach at Indiana. McMillin is completing his third year at the local school.

McMillin came to Indiana in 1934 after serving as head football coach at Kansas State Agricultural College. In his college days he was a member of the famous team of "Prayin' Colts" from Centre College, Kentucky.

During the three years McMillin has been at Indiana his teams have not lost a game to Purdue, traditional rivals of the Hoosiers. In 1934 and 1935 Indiana defeated the Boilermakers and last year the two teams played to a tie.

The new contract replaces a five-year agreement which McMillin signed when he came to Indiana. McMillin said the university did not disclose the salary provisions.

Petrels Defeat Davidson, 5 to 0.

Lefty Archer limited Davidson's Wildcats to two singles and Oglethorpe squared accounts with the visitors in a 5-to-0 victory Tuesday afternoon at Hernando, Fla. Davidson won the opener 8-to-2 and will leave early this morning for Due West, S. C., where Erskine will be played this afternoon.

Archer's pitching was not the entire feature of the ball game but the hitting of the Los Angeles recruit have not measured up to major league standards. Dykes said he would put himself on a diet of four innings a game, starting next week, and indicated he would try to make a trade for additional help at third base.

REDS OPTION ONE. TAMPA, Fla., March 30. (AP)—Eddie Miller, 20-year-old shortstop, tonight was sent to Syracuse, of the International league, by the Cincinnati Reds. Miller goes to the Chiefs on a 24-hour optional recall basis.

Commenting on this, Manager Charley Fressen said: "Miller is a fine prospect, but we will trade him to another major league club if we can get somebody who will help us."

Cracker Pitchers Hampered by Rain

Final Workout at Camp Set Thursday Unless Bad Weather Continues; Players Not Ready.

By Jack Troy. There is a very definite suspicion that here time comes for leaving here Friday, this fair village will be known as a raining camp and the Cracker's pitchers, at best, will not be in shape to go more than five had innings.

There will be no rain today. And the players put in hours of practice shuffling cards and their dogs around the lobby.

Crackers HINDERED. What the continued rain now threatens to undo a large part of the work Manager Moore and Coach Guy Green have done, especially with regard to the pitchers.

The regulars are scheduled to play Panama City in the final exhibition game here tomorrow. It doesn't rain some more. Bobby Durham and Lou Garland, who haven't seen any action yet, are scheduled to divide the work.

There will be a final workout Thursday, according to plans. There is nothing sure about it. The Cracker have not had two good days in a row since they have been here.

Not only the pitchers but the rest of the players as well need the work. A great deal more hitting practice could be used profitably.

INFILTRATED WORK. Then, too, the infield needs considerable work together. Buster Chatham and Hugh Luby are functioning nicely as a keyhole combination, but they're not expected to keep it up on a diet of rain.

This is the first spring since Eddie Moore has been manager of the Cracker that a training camp has produced so much rain. There was only one last day each at the Daytona Beach and Gulfport camps. A week can be counted lost here.

Several of the pitchers will depart for Atlanta Thursday. The remaining four will leave here early Friday for Lanett, Ala., where an exhibition game is scheduled Saturday.

The big hope is that the weather will be good in Atlanta and the berymen can get in some work between exhibition games and make up for lost time.

TWO MORE WEEKS. In just a few more weeks Atlanta and Nashville will be squaring off in the opening game of the season at Ponce de Leon park.

The big hope is that the weather will be good in Atlanta and the berymen can get in some work between exhibition games and make up for lost time.

Archer's perfect game was broken up in the seventh when Rudisill singled to right field but was forced out at second. Lafferty singled in the ninth, after Hand had walked, and both runners advanced on a passed ball, but Rudisill struck out and Hicks flied out to end the game.

In addition to limiting the visitors to two hits, Archer walked only one batter and struck out 10, with a fine change of pace. He caught two runners trying to steal bases and aided his own game with a triple in the fifth inning and scored on Thomas' home run. A great exhibition for a cold, gloomy day.

Oglethorpe will hold another practice session this afternoon, before leaving early Thursday for south Georgia and a two-game series with the University of Florida on Friday and Saturday.

WHISKY TRUST HIRING DEMOCRATS TO SWAY F. D. R., SOLON CHARGES

Fuller Says W. Forbes Morgan To Get $500,000 for His Influence.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP)—Charges that a huge whisky trust is hiring top flight Democratic politicians at fat salaries in order to influence the administration and, if possible, President Roosevelt, were hurled on the house floor today by Representative Fuller, Arkansas Democrat.

"He pointed out that W. Forbes Morgan, distant relative of Mr. Roosevelt, resigned as treasurer of the Democratic national committee to become president of the Distilled Spirits Institute at a 'guaranteed' salary of $500,000 for the next five years."

James H. Moran, former prohibition administrator, is paid $30,000 annually by the institute, Fuller said. He added Grover Whalen, prominent New York Democrat, received $75,000 annually as chairman of the board of a distilling company "for which salary he probably only is used for window dressing and for political influence in obtaining special favors."

"Mr. Morgan is not experienced in the liquor business and everyone knows that he was guaranteed this unreasonable and outrageous salary in order to obtain his influence with the Democratic administration and if possible, the President," Fuller roared. "The American people will now be educated by the whisky trust."

Fuller charged most of the liquor produced in this country came from the plants of nine distillers who constituted an alleged monopoly.

"The alleged monopoly is selling four-year-old whisky for $24 a gallon which costs only $1 to make and carry for four years, shrinkage, evaporation and interest included," he declared.

Morgan declined comment until he had studied Fuller's statement.

OIL SCION KILLED BY FIRE AT HOME

Boy Trapped on Second Floor of Suburban St. Louis House.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—(AP)—Grant Fraser, 13-year-old son of Alexander Fraser, president of the Shell Petroleum Corporation, died of suffocation today in a fire which swept the rambling 21-room family residence in suburban Clayton.

Trapped in his second-floor bedroom in the north wing of the large English-type brick house, the boy ran to a window and called, "I'm suffocating. Help!" Two maids, who had escaped by way of a rear stairway, were unable to assist him. Firemen found the boy dead when the flames abated sufficiently for them to enter his room.

Other members of the family escaped uninjured.

Fire Chief John O'Sullivan, who said the fire apparently started in the living room on the first floor, estimated damages at $50,000.

MIDSHIPMEN CRUISE IS SLATED FOR JUNE

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP)—The Navy Department announced today that the annual European training cruise for Annapolis midshipmen will begin on June 4 and end August 14.

The battleships New York, Arkansas and Wyoming, comprising the midshipmen's training squadron, will sail from Annapolis June 4 with members of the third and first classes. They will be landed from the cruise on August 14 at Hampton Roads, Va.

The navy said the exact itinerary has not been completed but that it will embrace visits to a number of European ports.

LAURENS COUNTY BILL VETOED BY GOVERNOR

Governor Rivers' office announced yesterday he had vetoed house bill 501, by Representatives Dampier and Larsen, of Laurens county, which would have given the solicitor general in counties between 32,000 and 32,700 population the right to appoint a special criminal bailiff.

The present law provides that such appointments may be made in counties over 35,000 population. The Governor gave no reasons for the veto.

'Twas in the Bag, So Greedy Lion Is Operated Upon

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 30.—(AP)—"Dutchess," a seven-year-old lion with a carnival here, caused excitement today after she surreptitiously got into a large supply of meat packed in canvas bags.

"Dutchess" ate the bags along with the meat, and an immediate operation to save her life was ordered.

An operating table was set up in the carnival tent; Dr. I. T. Lewis, veterinarian, put the lion to sleep with hypodermics and prepared for section.

As Dr. Lewis proceeded, Dr. Steven Davis, Charlotte specialist, came forward to assist—but the crowd no longer pressed forward.

As the stomach was removed and Dr. Lewis began pulling out handful after handful of canvas, "Bugs" Barringer, volunteer assistant to a newspaper photographer, fell to the floor in a faint, the crowd made for the entrances, and within a few minutes only the most hardy remained scattered around the operating table.

Whether "Dutchess" would recover remained to be determined.

ROOSEVELT'S LETTER READ AT SANTEE TRIAL

Utilities Rest in Opposition to $37,500,000 Power Project.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 30.—(UP)—Copy of a letter from President Roosevelt to United States Senator Byrnes, South Carolina, in which the President authorized the $37,500,000 Santee-Cooper hydro-electric and navigation project, was placed in evidence this afternoon by the defense in the Santee-Cooper trial, as they placed on the stand their first witness, May Mahan, of Charleston, chairman of the South Carolina Public Service Authority. Three privately owned utilities seeking a permanent injunction against the project, told the court they had "rested" their case.

President Roosevelt's letter, in part, said:

"The total cost of the project is estimated at $37,500,000. I will approve a grant of 45 per cent and a loan of $20,625,000, the interest rate to be 4 per cent and the loan to be amortized over a period of 30 years."

In another paragraph, he wrote, "before any funds are advanced upon the project, the Public Works Administrator must be furnished satisfactory evidence of the constitutionality of the act creating the South Carolina Public Service Authority, its power to issue bonds and its right to construct and operate the project."

CLERK IS SENTENCED ON FORGERY CHARGE

KASSEL, Germany, March 30.—(AP)—A 35-year-old clerk, Willi Hoch, was sentenced today to eight years in prison for forging documents concerning the $17,000,000 estate of Mrs. Walter Garrett, of Philadelphia.

Hoch was convicted of forging two documents purporting to establish facts concerning Christopher Schaeffer, German grandfather of Mrs. Garrett, who died in 1930 leaving a will that bequeathed only $62,000 of her huge fortune.

(Hundreds of Germans, claiming descent from Mrs. Garrett's forbears, have sought a slice of the fortune, now tied up in Philadelphia courts.)

HITLER HAS LONG TALK WITH VON LUDENDORFF

BERLIN, March 30.—(AP)—A long, intimate talk between General Erich von Ludendorff and Reichswehr Chief Adolf Hitler raised speculation today whether Germany's famous World War quartermaster general, long at odds with the Nazis, is coming back.

An official communiqué told of the heart-to-heart talk. Hitler had with the old "stormer of Liege" in von Ludendorff's home at Tutzing, Bavaria.

From the tenor of the communiqué it appeared Hitler had succeeded at least partly in gaining the general's sympathetic ear for purposes which were not disclosed.

VAN SWERINGEN FIRM PURCHASE IS SOUGHT

CLEVELAND, March 30.—(AP)—G. A. Tomlinson, a leading figure in the Van Sweringen empire since the death of the two Van Sweringens, said today that "proposals" had been made concerning the sale of Midamerica Corporation, but "nothing of interest" had resulted.

Midamerica Corporation controls the vast Van Sweringen railroad and real estate holdings and was the instrument by which the brothers reaped their interests at a time when they were threatened by effects of the depression.

Discussing negotiations for sale of Midamerica, Tomlinson said "we have listened to propositions, but nothing of interest has been mentioned."

ESTATE OF SUICIDE IS LEFT TO NEPHEW

NEW ORLEANS, March 30.—(AP)—The last will and testament of the late Adolph Steinhardt, 58-year-old importer, filed today for probate, named his nephew, Simon Steinhardt, of Chicago, the sole legatee.

Steinhardt shot and killed his estranged wife and himself last Wednesday in the corridor of an office building. The couple had been married for about 10 years.

Attorneys pointed out that under the state community laws heirs of Mrs. Steinhardt likely could break the will since Mrs. Steinhardt lived an hour longer than her wounded husband.

Alabama Auto Spoons Get Official Warning

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 30.—(AP)—Spooning in automobiles along the curbs of Cloverdale, fashionable Montgomery suburb, bore today an official police taboo.

Even at that, Police Commissioner W. P. Screws gave young swains and maidens what is commonly termed hereabouts "a break."

Only second offenders will be hauled into a police station.

Two motorcycle officers, and a cruising squad car, with lights on, have been assigned to patrol streets fringing the southern edge of Cloverdale, described as a "favorite parking grounds," nightly. Tax numbers and mail will be taken the first time. The next time spooners are caught they go to the police station, said Screws.

STATE CONTROL OF PAY IS NOT ENOUGH—F. D. R.

Roosevelt, However, Says It's Too Early To Talk of Federal Law.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt indicated plainly today he still considers state laws, alone, inadequate to regulate minimum wages.

At his first press conference since the supreme court reversed itself and upheld the right of states to fix minimum wages for women, the President said he had talked a lot about the inadequacy of state minimum wage legislation on previous occasions and had not changed his opinion.

His listeners recalled he had made a pointed reference to the subject in his annual message to congress last January. At that time he said:

"That decent conditions and adequate pay for labor, and just return for agriculture, can be secured through parallel and simultaneous action by 48 states is a proven impossibility."

Too Early for U. S. Law.

In response to questions today, Mr. Roosevelt said it was much too early to talk about federal legislation on minimum wages and maximum hours. He has had the question under study by advisors for some time, however, and expressed hope recently that such legislation would be enacted at the present session of congress.

There has been some speculation as to whether a specific presidential proposal would be held up until after congress acts on his legislation to reorganize the supreme court, which killed the old NRA.

Asked by a reporter today if the court was "curing itself," the President indicated he had no direct comment on the tribunal's decision yesterday upholding the Washington state minimum wage law for women.

Apply to Everyone.

He did say, however, that state minimum wage laws should apply to everyone—men, women and children. He added he would ask the attorney general whether yesterday's decision had revived the District of Columbia minimum wage law for women, invalidated 14 years ago in an opinion which the high court has now reversed.

Miss Louise Stitt, minimum wage supervisor of the Labor Department's women's bureau, said it was "very likely" that minimum wage laws would be enacted in the near future in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Texas and South Carolina.

About 65 per cent of women employed in industry reside in states having minimum wage laws, she said.

RUSSIANS ARE WARNED TO INTENSIFY OUTPUT

Official Fears Second 5-Year Plan Will Fall Short of Mark.

MOSCOW, March 30.—(AP)—The Russian government told its workers today to intensify industrial and agricultural production, lest the second five-year plan fall short of its mark.

Alarmed over a slump in output and particularly delays in the spring planting campaign, the government warned that work in some industrial and agricultural branches had been "unsatisfactory" and must be "corrected immediately."

The central executive committee council of people's commissars was represented as being particularly anxious for record-breaking production this year—which not only marks the end of the second five-year plan, but also celebration of the first 20 years of Soviet rule.

The first plan ended in 1932 with only 93.7 per cent of the general industrial program fulfilled. Joseph Stalin, secretary general of the Communist party, attributed that to war dangers compelling the country to divert its energies to preparing for defense.

The spring planting campaign is almost 315,000,000 acres behind schedule. Planting for 1937 at this time should have reached 328,000,000 acres but a survey disclosed only 13,200,000 acres had been planted. In the corresponding period of 1936, 54,408,000 acres had been sown.

Officials charged the lag was due to lack of preparation and carelessness. Farmers said the lateness of spring was the cause.

CATHOLIC U. WILL GET NEW CONSTITUTION

VATICAN CITY, March 30.—(AP)—A new constitution for the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C., was approved by the sacred congregation of seminaries and university studies.

Monsignor Joseph Corrigan, rector of Catholic University, said "the approval covers the sacred sciences, theology, canon law and philosophy, and all schools of art and sciences as well as professional schools attached to the university in plans for the future."

In an audience granted Monsignor Corrigan on the anniversary of the Pope's coronation February 12, the Holy Father gave his heartfelt approbation to the proposed school of social sciences.

ALMSHOUSE INMATES IMPERILED BY BLAZE

NEW LISBON, N. J., March 30.—(AP)—Fire leveled five of the six wings of the Burlington County Almshouse today but its 139 inmates, many of them in night clothes, were led to safety.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was discovered about 2 a. m. by Miss Fred Simmons, a nurse, who smelled smoke.

Assisted by Ivins G. Wright, the steward, and Miss Beulah Sprague, another nurse, she awakened the inmates, who fled out in orderly fashion. They were taken to three other nearby institutions.

An attendant at the almshouse estimated damage at $200,000.

Teething is TERRIBLE

"I got the best mama in all the world. She knows just what to do for me when I suffer some of these little ills which come along when babies like me start teething. Mama gives me Teething when I'm temporarily constipated and when gas or a sour stomach give me colic pains, or when I eat the wrong kind of food and run off my bowels. Teething makes a big hit with me because it tastes good, and mama likes it, as twelve powders cost but 5c. The druggist store man keeps plenty of Teething for us babies." TEETHINA.

Visit of Grace Powell Reveals Interesting Career in Boston, Mass.

By Sally Forth.

IT WAS a pleasant surprise to glimpse Grace Powell at a recent Easter party. Grace, you know, is the second daughter of Judge and Mrs. Arthur Powell, and for the past two years has made her home in Boston, where she is making quite a name for herself in her chosen career, that of social service work. She is enrolled in the School of Social Work at Simmons College.

Grace has as her roommate Catherine Hubbard, of Tulsa, Okla., who is also pursuing the same type of work and whom Atlantans will recall most pleasantly because of her frequent visits here with Grace. The two girls share a charming apartment in Boston, where they have a wide circle of friends, made during their school days at Wellesley College.

Three days a week are spent by Grace in classrooms, while the remainder of the time is spent "in the field" doing church work, but her special forte is family welfare. Grace has a natural knack for work of this nature and through her magnetic personality and graciousness of manner, bids fair to go far in her chosen career. She obtained a splendid foundation for her present post when doing social service work at Eggleston hospital in Atlanta.

It's not all work and no play for Grace and Catherine, however, for they find time to attend many social affairs and to enjoy the cultural advantages in Boston. Some of the recent plays they attended were "Jane Eyre" with Katharine Hepburn, "The Masque of Kings" with Pauline Frederick, and "An Enemy of the People" with Walter Huston. The Metropolitan Opera opens there this week and the lovely Atlanta is looking forward to attending many of the performances.

That she is making a success of her life and enjoying her residence in Boston is very pleasing to the hosts of friends Grace has here, but these Atlanta friends will be sorry to bid her adieu when she returns north at the end of the week.

ATLANTA'S Paul de Givie is in charge of arrangements for the presentation of "Come Across," to be given by Harvard's Hasty Pudding Club in New York on April 9. Founded in 1770, members of the club present an annual theatrical performance which is a credit to the organization and the cast.

Paul resides in the metropolis and is always at the forefront of affairs concerning Harvard, his alma mater. This is the second year that arrangements for the theatrical production have been made by Paul, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. DeGivie, those well-known Atlantans.

Pretty Hope Gatins, who attended Sacred Heart school when she was in Atlanta and who made her bow to New York society last year, is vice chairman of the Junior committee perfecting the arrangements. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gatins.

Among the players are Gaspar Bacon Jr., of Boston, who contributed to the book and the music of the show and will take the part of an English lady, William Myrick, of New York and East Hampton, L. I., who will be Prudence Doodle; John Graham, of New York and Bernardsville, N. J., leader of the chorus girls, and Benjamin Dillingham, of New York and Hawaii, who, as Llewellyn Martingale, will portray a bombastic theatrical director.

George H. Earle IV, son of the Governor of Pennsylvania, was chosen the most beautiful chorine at a judging in Cambridge, Mass. Benjamin Welles, who contributed to the book and wrote four of the songs, will do specialty dances, and Lawrence Davis is the featured singer in the cast.

IN THE hurry and bustle of compiling wedding invitation lists, it's bad enough to leave off, unintentionally, of course, some of your best friends, but when it

Charming Chinese Visitor Finds Life in the South to Her Liking

Madame Alice Chung, of Shanghai, China, who arrived in Atlanta yesterday.

United States and who accomplished much in establishing friendly relations between the two nations. Her father is a prominent flour manufacturer in Shanghai, and her brother, Henry Sung, is president of the Chang Fuo Union Bank, one of the strongest financial institutions in China.

Looking hardly older than a debutante, Madame Chung is the mother of three children whom she left in the care of her sister. The smooth, round contours of her face, her wide brow, her intelligent eye, and her cultured bearing bespeak her aristocratic lineage. Gowned after the latest Chinese mode, she wore a costume of dark green silk of an indistinct pattern, topped with a short, sleeveless jacket of gray shaded lamb. The note of green was repeated in her jade earrings.

Like most Chinese mothers, Madame Chung's principal interests are her home and her family. Her leisure time is divided between her social duties and her work in the Women's Club of Shanghai of which she is a member. "Our club work embraces a varied program of social service," she explained, "such as free beds in the hospitals, free schools for poor children, and many other phases of charity."

Which is much the same program followed by women's organizations in this country.

One of the highlights of her visit to Los Angeles was the premiere of the screen production of Pearl Buck's prize-winning novel, "The Good Earth." "Though not entirely realistic," she declared, "it is the best presentation of Chinese life that I have ever seen," she said.

To emphasize how much she likes America, Madame Chung declared that she might extend her stay in this country beyond her present plan of six months. "I might even take up some branch of study in New York or Los Angeles," she added. Such a public speaking or dramatics or journalism.

Which appears to be another challenge to that Oriental restraint that serves to enhance her fascinating charm. At least from the Western point of view.

Miss Emily Smith Makes Debut At Ball and Reception at Club

Amid a colorful springtime garden setting Miss Emily Smith, beautiful young debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex W. Smith, made her formal bow to exclusive members of the younger social contingent at a brilliant ball given by her parents last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club. Quantities of artistically arranged pink hydrangeas, peach blossoms and roses in shades of pink, adorned the ballroom, and a background was formed of stately palms and ferns in graceful arrangement.

Decorations in Ballroom. The massive white columns in the ballroom were entwined with branches of peach blossoms, and forming a screen before which the hosts and their guests received their guests at the far end of the ballroom, was a gorgeous array of floral tributes sent the debutante by her admiring friends. Long buffet tables were placed on either side of the room, and centering these tables were pink roses and hydrangeas interspersed with potted trees. In the loggia and entrance hall pastel-shaded flowers and arrangements were used in effective arrangement, and a plateau of similar flowers decorated the punch table.

Miss Smith wore a handsome model of powder blue chiffon with wide stripes of pink and blue chiffon flowing from the back of the gown to form a short train. Her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. G. F. Willis, sister of the debutant, wore a white crepe dress printed with red flowers and Mrs. Tom Clarke, another sister of Miss Smith, was attired in chartreuse chiffon.

Their flowers were orchids. Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Smith presented their daughter to married members of Atlanta society at an elaborate reception at the Piedmont Driving Club. Sharing honors with Miss Smith was her cousin Miss Helen Hill Hopkins, who made her formal bow to younger members of the social contingent at a Christmas Eve ball given by her sisters, Misses Carroll and Elizabeth Hopkins at the Driving Club.

A spring garden scene formed the background for the elaborate party, and assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Alex W. Smith Sr., grandmother of Miss Smith, who wore a lovely model of black net; Mrs. Edward Brown, of Endless Caverns, Va., sister of the hosts, who was attired in white silk printed with flame colored tulips; Mrs. Charles T. Hopkins, Mrs. Victor Smith, Mrs. G. F. Willis, Mrs. Tom Clarke, Miss Nancy Hopkins, and the members of the hostesses' two sewing clubs, who include a group of Atlanta's most prominent matrons.

Also assisting were Misses Carroll Hopkins, Elizabeth Hopkins, Anne Irby, Laura Maddox, Annette Hightower, Elkin Goddard, Rosemary Maury, Clara Harty, Emma Midler, Emily Allen, of Noroton, Conn.; Peggy Loker, of New Orleans, La.; cousin of Miss Smith; Julia Colquhoun, Catherine Campbell, Beverly Bailey and Anne Douglas, of Savannah.

Wears White Satin. Miss Smith chose for the occasion a stunning gown of white chiffon embroidered with rhinestones and made on graceful lines. Adorning her shoulder was a cluster of purple orchids.

Miss Hopkins was costumed in hyacinth blue marquisette, and her flowers were orchids. Mrs. Smith wore blue lace over tulle and embroidered with silver threads, and her flowers were pale lavender orchids.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

REBIDDING OVER TWO NO TRUMP

When the response was two no trump, the opening hand usually should raise to three no trump with balanced distribution (unless the hand contains more than four honor tricks and he wishes to make a slam-try), and rebid his suit or a new suit with unbalanced distribution.

With balanced distribution and distributed strength, the opener should simply raise to three no trump, even though his hand contains a rebiddable suit. This is not true, however, in the case of hands containing aid-card suits, which should be rebid.

For example, when the opening one spade bid has been taken out with two no trump, the opener should bid three no trump, with spades, A J 10 8 5; hearts, 7 6 3; diamonds A Q 8; clubs, 9 8 7 4 2; hearts, K Q 7; diamonds, A 8; clubs, 7 3. Bid three spades with spades, A K 8 6 4; hearts, K Q Q; diamonds, 7; clubs, 8 6 4 3.

Today's Hand.

"Speaking of opening leads, and the marvel is that I can bring myself to speak of them after last night's session, here is one that qualifies me for the Nobel prize for the outstanding jackass performance of the year. It cost me only a piffing matter of five tricks on a doubled contract.

East, dealer.

The bidding:

"No sooner was the auction completed than my bungling fingers pulled out the highest card of my partner's bid suit. I should like to draw a veil over what happened, but I guess you wouldn't have much difficulty in figuring it out for yourself. Dummy ruffed my club, and led the king of hearts. My partner, the poor lamb that I had led to slaughter, covered with the ace and declarer, with an odious smirk on his hideous face, ruffed. Another club ruff followed, and declarer's lone diamond was discarded on the heart queen. Now the diamond king was led through East, and the diamond ace hit the dust under declarer's ruff. A third club was ruffed with dummy's last trump, and declarer's two remaining clubs went off on the jack of hearts and queen of diamonds, while I moodily frowned.

"Had there been any way of my losing the ace-king-jack of trumps, I probably would have done so, but declarer graciously conceded me these tricks.

"How any one but an idiot could have failed to lay down the spade king on opening lead is beyond me. Certainly it could have cost me nothing and would have gained me a bird's-eye view of the situation. Had I done this and found dummy void in clubs, even I would have had the brains to continue with no trump leads, giving up a trump trick in exchange for the club ruffs I could prevent. You will note that, on three leads of spades by myself, declarer would have to lose a grand total of eight tricks, so that instead of making his contract with an extra trick he would have gone down 1100. I think you will agree that South's bidding was almost as bad as my lead, but (as he did not fail to point out) he was bidding with the advantage of having me as an opponent.

"Let your scourge fall with a will. I deserve all you can say and more. "Shamefully yours," "L. E. Louisville, Ky."

It appears that my correspondent already has had cruel and unusual punishment from his own conscience. I imagine his partner had a few choice remarks to make also, so why should I heap coals on the fire?

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Heather Aston, now 34, has reared three brothers and three sisters, the youngest of whom, Bobbie, cost their mother her life. Heather started her sacrifices when Bobbie was a year old, telling Bruce Logan, who was leaving England for South Africa, she could not marry him and desert her "children," and Caesar, as their affectionate call their poms but inefficient father. Heather, married to a wealthy woman, doesn't see his family. Betty recently married the well-to-do Stephen Miller. Vilette, with a theatrical company in South Africa, (Poonchy is her stage name), writes that she comes home and has met "the man," who is coming on the same ship. When Heather meets him she meets Bruce Logan. For a time she avoids intimate talk, but getting her alone he asks why she has changed. As she admits to herself she loves Bruce, she asks if he doesn't know Vilette loves him. Bruce asks her to marry and return with him to South Africa; she says the family can't spare her. Henry Mathews, a bachelor neighbor, offers Heather's family his seaside cottage at Weymouth. Vilette goes to a dance with Paddy Jepson, an aviator, drinks too much and asks Heather not to tell Bruce. Effie, the youngest sister, overhears Vilette accusing Heather of coming between her and "a man she used to love." Not knowing what is wrong, but feeling that the family is always imposing on Heather, Effie goes to Bruce for advice. Answering Effie's questions, he says he knows Heather's old sweetheart loved her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XVII.

Mathews patted her hand. "Mustn't give up hope," he said awkwardly. "It's got to be a fine constitution. You give way now! We all count on you."

He cleared his throat vigorously. "If there's anything I can do," he said again, "I know what your father was—the best chap in the world but a bit careless with money matters, and when a man's ill. Well, if you want anything, my dear, don't hesitate to call on me. It will be a pleasure—a real pleasure."

"You're so kind," Heather faltered, and she thought in despair, "If only he would go before I make an idiot of myself and burst out crying!" Mathews twisted his hat and looked at the floor.

"What about your two young people...," he said suddenly, "Bobbie and the little girl? If you want to get them out of the way—off your hands—send them along to me. And if you want the use of the car—well, Fisher can bring it over at any time. He really hasn't got enough to do."

Heather tried to speak, but she could not trust herself, and seeing her distress he said, "Well, I'll be off. You know my telephone number, my dear, don't you? And he had gone before she could try to thank him. She stood where he had left her for some minutes, trying to control her feelings.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 87

Seeing that Tarzan paid no attention to him, Nkima lost interest in the game and started to desert. Now, again, Jane's vital note was about to fall under Tarzan's eyes, but again fate intervened, this time in the form of a fledgling bird trying its wings.

Nkima spied it and gave chase, following deep into the forest. And with him he carried the momentous message. Perhaps he would lose it, as he had lost that other piece of paper, and so Tarzan would lose his chance to save Jane from the menace of the jungle.

So near, and yet so far away, Jane made a final inspection of the camp, then lay down to rest for the next day's journey. Brown took the first tour of duty as sentry near the blazing hearth, and for a while his beloved Annette kept him company.

As they sat with arms around each other, they had much to speak of, and they were happy to be alone. They felt that they had the night and the world to themselves, but that was because they were unaware of the silent, savage watcher in the tree above them.
